Cabinet Quits

HEINRICH BRUENING

New Cabinet To Be Picked By Bruening

Old Body Resigns to Give Free Hand to German Chancellor

Berlin —(AP)— President von Hindenburg accepted the resignations of the Bruening cabinet today and immediately authorized Chancellor Bruening to form a new ministry which would consolidate the government's position with the Reichstag. Their action was taken at a cabinet meeting and Chancellor Bruening went directly to the president with the resignations. It was intended to pave the way for Herr Bruening to draw up a new ministry which would contain only a limited number of the present members. The president commissioned, his chancellor to draw up a non-partisan cabinet whose members would be named strictly on a personal basis and without regard for their party affiliations. Herr Bruening accepted the mandate and went to work with a free hand to choose his new co-workers.

The resignations followed by one day that of Foreign Minister Curtius, who withdrew in the face of attacks on his handling of the Austro-German customs pact.

The present cabinet was installed on March 29, 1930, and has struggled with some of the most difficult problems in Germany's post-war history. Many of its members were considered to be liabilities because of the strong criticism from left and right factions and their withdrawal constituted a house-cleaning in preparation for the convening of the Reichstag next Tuesday.

Tentative lineup of the cabinet to be covered in these hearings includes: Wausau, Rau, Claes, Kenosha, Platteville, Madison, Green Bay, Milwaukee, Superior and LaCrosse. The hearings probably will get under way next Monday or Tuesday and, if the proposed schedule is adhered to, will not be completed for two weeks.

In that event the committee would not be prepared to submit a program of banking legislation before Oct. 23 or 24, indicating that the special session may not get under way until November.

The unemployment committee, which is winding up a series of public hearings this week expects to have its recommendations for unemployment relief ready by next Monday. At that time Governor LaFollette will be in conference here with the committee of mayors and county chairmen to determine how much state aid money the legislature will be asked to appropriate for direct relief and public works programs.

FALL ASKS PAROLE

Washington —(AP)— Albert E. Fall, former secretary of the interior, applied to the justice department today for a parole from his year and a day sentence for accepting a bribe.

NO FIREWORKS AS U. S. OPENS CAPONE TRIAL

Unemotional Account Given of 23 Counts Against Gang Chieftain

Federal Building, Chicago —(AP)— The government began its case against Alphonse Capone in deliberate, scholarly manner today, charging that although the gang emperor made a million dollars and more from gambling "and other business enterprises," he deliberately tried to conceal his income to evade payment of taxes.

Dwight H. Green, assistant U. S. district attorney, laid the groundwork for the government case with an unemotional account of the two indictments and 23 counts against Capone, and of the various sums of alleged income and taxes owed from 1924 to 1929.

"The evidence will show," Green said, "that the defendant's manner of doing business, his handling huge sums of money in cash and telegraphic money orders, his dissipation of assets, all were part of a scheme to defeat and evade the taxes. He had money in plenty, but he paid none of it to the government."

The opening statement was delayed about 40 minutes by a conference between Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson and counsel for both sides. The defense said it had learned reasons for which one of the jurors selected yesterday should be disqualified, but after the conference all the jurors were allowed to remain and there was no explanation of the objection.

75 Witnesses Called

Witnesses, 75 of them mustered by the government, from as far away as New York and Florida, will tell what they know of Capone's profits from liquor, gambling, and vice in Chicago. The jurors will decide whether the scarred-face evaded paying income tax on the earnings.

Capone was in fine fettle for the trial, "feeling a lot better," he said, "since it really is started." He had assumed an affable attitude toward all, and bent forward in intense interest at each court maneuver.

For the jurors, it was just the trial of "a man named Capone," who is charged by the government with committing a crime in connection with his income tax reports. They were warned by Judge James H. Wilkerson not to consider the defendant as the millionaire gangster he is considered to be by the public.

Speed with which the jury was selected, occupying only about five hours, indicated the government plans to rush the case against Capone to conclusion in as rapid time as possible. District Attorney George E. J. Johnson, evidently in the interests of speed, made not one motion during the first day's session.

The prosecution will attempt to prove that Capone defrauded the government of $215,000 through income tax evasion on earnings of $1,036,654 during the years 1924-1929.

Two defense motions—one to force the prosecution to supply the defense with a list of the government witnesses and the other to remove about 30 newspaper reporters from a position only a few feet in front of the judge's bench, were pending when court opened today.

Capone appeared intensely interested at mention of the witnesses. As for the newspaper reporters, Capone appeared indifferent. He can always laugh and shrug when they ask questions about important things.

Capone's figure in two other court actions yesterday.

The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals set Nov. 6 for the hearing of oral arguments in the appeal of Al from the six months contempt of court sentence imposed in connection with his evasion of a federal grand jury subpoena.

The same court granted Al's brother, Ralph, a stay of mandate, delaying until Oct. 20 his commitment on a three-year sentence in Leavenworth prison for income tax fraud.

HOLD SERVICES FOR 3 MURDER VICTIMS

Burlington —(AP)— A thousand persons today attended funeral services for the three Boschert, Frank, 64, Herbert, 31, and Robert, 13 months, who were slain on their farm home last Sunday by Frank Gray, farm hand. About 800 were able to get into St. Mary church, where high mass was celebrated. Many more were grouped about doors and windows of the church.

The fourth victim of Gray's shot gun attack, Celia Kerkman, who was employed on the Boschert farm, will be buried in New Munster tomorrow after services in St. Alphonsus church.

Edison Fast Sinking Into Coma State

Physician Believes Death of Inventor Inevitable Within Few Days

West Orange, N. J. —(AP)— Thomas A. Edison, who is dying at his home was much weaker this morning.

"This morning Mr. Edison is much weaker," Dr. Hubert S. Howe said in his morning bulletin. "It is impossible for him to sit without support. He finds it increasingly difficult to take fluids."

After issuing the bulletin Dr. Howe said the aged inventor was in a light sleep or doze most of the time. He indicated he regarded this as the beginning of the coma from which it is expected that within the next few days Edison will quietly slip into death.

"I found Mr. Edison very much weaker physically," Dr. Howe said. "When I came in this morning, he indicated he wanted to get up. The nurse and I propped him in his chair but immediately we had to carry him back to bed. He is in a light sleep most of the time, and it appears to be the beginning of the coma."

Dr. Howe made it clear that while he did not regard Edison's death a matter of hours, he did believe it to be only a few days off.

The inventor was no longer alert and he failed to brighten up when Dr. Howe entered his room this morning, as he usually did, the physician said.

CHURCH CONFERENCE ASKS JOB INSURANCE

Congregationalists Urge U. S. to Act for Disarmament

Green Bay —(AP)— The interim committee of the state legislature was asked to recommend for passage, at the special session of the legislature to be called this fall, an adequate unemployment insurance plan, in a resolution adopted at the 93rd annual conference here. Approximately 250 ministers and laymen are here as delegates.

Other resolutions urging unemployment relief and disarmament also were passed. The resolutions follow:

"Resolved: That we, the Wisconsin Congregational conference, respectfully urge the interim committee of the state legislature to recommend to the special meeting of the legislature about to convene that any adequate unemployment insurance plan be passed and put in operation that immediate steps be taken to relieve distress and unemployment in our state by such action as commends itself to the governor and members of the legislature."

Resolved: That the Wisconsin Congregational conference respectfully petitions the president of the United States to send a delegate or delegates to the Geneva disarmament conference with definite instructions to work to end every honorable influence in favor of general disarmament.

MAUTHE IS NAMED TO EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

Madison —(AP)— The appointment of William Maute, Fond du Lac manufacturer, as a citizen representative on the governor's executive council was announced at Governor LaFollette's office today.

Lindberghs Abandon Tour; Coming Home By Steamer

Shanghai —(AP)— Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh abandoned their aerial tour of the Far East today and announced they would start home tomorrow by steamer and rail.

The fliers made their decision after studying messages they received along with news of the death in Englewood, N. J., Monday of Senator Dwight W. Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's father.

In abandoning their aerial adventure, which they had counted upon to take them back to America by air, they gave up a project which had occupied them since last July 29, when they left New York for a flying vacation to the Far East.

Although disposition of their damaged monoplane was not mentioned in their announcement, the craft probably will be shipped back to the United States later.

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh made arrangements to sail tomorrow for Nagasaki, Japan, on the steamer Shanghai Maru. From there they will go to Yokohama by rail and then sail Oct. 16 on the liner President Jefferson for Seattle, where they will arrive Oct. 20.

Their plane remained aboard the British aircraft carrier Hermes, which brought the Lindberghs here from Hankow yesterday.

The plane was damaged at Hankow last week when it capsized after a head-on collision with a Japanese ferry lowered from the Hermes for a flood survey flight for the Chinese government. Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh were thrown into the river, but were rescued by a launch.

The upset at Hankow was their second encounter with trouble on their Far Eastern flight. While approaching Japan from Petropavlovsk, Siberia, they were delayed about three days in the Kurile Islands by three foreign landings growing out of motor trouble and the menace of thick fogs.

After several days of receptions and sightseeing in Japan the Lindberghs flew to Nanking, the Chinese capital. There they requested that celebrations be dispensed with and volunteered the use of their time and airplane for flood relief work.

LAST TRIBUTE PAID TODAY TO SEN. MORROW

Many of Nation's Notables Attend Funeral Services in New Jersey

Englewood, N. J. —(AP)— Dignitaries of the nation came today to Englewood, a hushed and grief-bowed community, to pay a nation's tribute at the bier of Dwight W. Morrow.

The funeral setting was as simple and quiet as the man himself. There was little ostentation to show that a United States senator who in four short years had risen to the heights of statesmanship was being buried. That was as he would have wished it.

The service at the First Presbyterian church at 3 o'clock this afternoon was for the public, especially the Englewood neighbors among whom Dwight Morrow was a friend and champion for 26 years.

Heading the list of national, foreign and diplomatic dignitaries were Calvin Coolidge and Vice President Charles Curtis, the latter representing President Hoover. Secretary of State Stimson represented the diplomatic corps, in which Mr. Morrow served so brilliantly as ambassador to Mexico. Twenty-five United States senators arrived at Newark to attend the services for their colleague. Representative Tilson of Connecticut, headed the delegation from the house.

Other delegations included the New Jersey legislature, the board of trustees of Amherst college, the New Jersey state board of institutions and agencies, members of the firm of J. P. Morgan and Company of which Mr. Morrow was once a partner; the Amherst college class of 1895, the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The city of Englewood, which saw Mr. Morrow rise from a small legal practice to heights of glory in finance, social position, statesmanship and political honor, showed "very deeply the affection it had for its most illustrious citizen."

WINE BRICK SALES ARE BARRED AT U. OF W.

Madison —(AP)— The University of Wisconsin will not countenance the sale of wine bricks by students, regardless of the scarcity of other jobs, J. D. Phillips, business manager, said today.

Mr. Phillips was appointed by President Glenn Frank to investigate reports that students were selling wine bricks and that a representative of a California wine brick company was soliciting student workers, including co-eds.

"The student employment bureau of the university disclaimed on its own initiative, sending students to Mr. Olsen (the representative)," Mr. Phillips said. "When the proposition was first broached to Miss Alice King, bureau directors, she looked into it in a general way and then sent three students to Mr. Olsen. None of the trio accepted his offer."

"Sale of wine bricks by students would be undesirable in my opinion."

FORMER UNDERSHERIFF SUCCUMBS AT ASHLAND

Ashland —(AP)— Eugene Miller, 65, oil dealer and former Douglas county undersheriff, fell dead on a street here yesterday while on the way to a doctor's office for an examination of a heart condition. Miller once operated a hotel in Superior and formerly was connected with the Saxon, Wis., bank.

Sculptor Dies

Stockbridge, Mass. —(AP)— Daniel Chester French, dean of American sculptors, died at his summer home today. He had been in ailing health for several months.

French, 72, was born in Boston and studied at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He was a member of the National Academy of Design and the National Sculpture Society.

His most famous work is the statue of the Lincoln Memorial in Washington. He also sculpted the statue of the Wright brothers in Dayton, Ohio, and the statue of the American Legion in New York City.

He was married to Mrs. Mary French and had three children. He was a member of the Episcopal church and was a devout Christian.

He was buried in the Mount Auburn cemetery in Cambridge, Mass.

Find Fortune Hoarded In Hotel Room

Woman, 93, Once Society Leader, Wonders Why Law Takes $400,000

New York —(AP)— A little old lady of 93 years wondered today why the law should take her hoard of $400,000 in cash from its numerous hiding places in her modest hotel room.

"I don't want anybody to take care of me," said Mrs. Ida E. Wood, who once reigned over Fifth Avenue salons and danced with King Edward VII when he was the crown prince. "I'm 93 years old — and that's old enough for me to take care of myself."

A bewildering treasure was revealed yesterday when officers, acting under a court order declaring Mrs. Wood incompetent, searched her quarters at the Herald Square hotel.

Confronted with the court order, Mrs. Wood surrendered her treasure reluctantly. From the folds of her old-fashioned frock she produced a parcel. In it were bills of large denomination — many of them half a century old.

Altogether there was $400,000 in cash. For years she had kept it not trusting banks of investments.

In the room, too, were trunks filled with lace, deflated bustles, satin ball gowns, watches studded with diamonds, taffeta petticoats, dance programs, tiny shoes and jewelry.

Although she was openly displeased that any court should think her unable to attend to her own business affairs, Mrs. Wood did not become angry as she did a few weeks ago when she produced a sugar bag containing $50,000 and turned it over to the administrator of her affairs.

Mrs. Wood, slightly deaf for years, is only five feet tall. She has lived alone for many years. Her husband, one time owner and publisher of the New York Daily News, was a prominent Democrat. That newspaper had no connection with the present Daily News.

After Mr. Wood's death, his widow managed the paper herself by telephone and pneumatic tube, reading the proofs and directing its editorial policy.

WOMAN'S CASE DROPPED AT DRY LAW HEARING

Milwaukee —(AP)— Mrs. Patricia Dickow, Sheboygan, was dismissed when arraigned here yesterday before United States Commissioner Floyd Jenkins on charges of prohibition law violation.

She attempted, prohibition agents said, to slash her wrists while being brought here after the raid on the Little Bohemia cafe at Sheboygan. Her husband, Max and his bartender, Roland Schneider, waived preliminary hearing and were held to the grand jury on bonds of $500.

John Edwards and Frank Wallace, arrested in a raid on a still near Jackson, Washington, were held on $2,500 bond each for a hearing Oct. 15.

PAINTER MUST DIE FOR SLAYING CHICAGO GIRL

Springfield, Ill. —(AP)— John L. Preston, Chicago painter, must die in the electric chair at Joliet Friday for slaying Miss Agnes Johnston, Chicago stenographer. The execution order was affirmed yesterday when the state supreme court denied a rehearing. He was convicted at Wheaton in December, 1929.

BANKERS VOTE APPROVAL FOR HOOVER PLAN

President Meets Group to Discuss Home Building and Ownership

Atlantic City, N. J. —(AP)— The American Bankers association today voted approval of President Hoover's plan for a $500,000,000 banker's pool to mobilize the nation's frozen credit.

Amid scenes of wild enthusiasm the convention approved president Hoover's proclamation in its entirety, and afterwards adopted the following specific praise of essential points:

"We heartily approve the plan of the president of the United States under which a $500,000,000 bank pool is being created for the purpose of meeting the discount demands of bankers who find it advisable in supplying the needs of the public to obtain funds from collateral of a character, which though sound, is not eligible for rediscount directly or indirectly with the federal reserve banks."

"The operation of this pool which should be available for use by all sound banks, both state and national, should immediately remove the restriction upon credit throughout the United States that has been the cause of so much anxiety to bankers and the public and should serve to reestablish confidence through the length and breadth of this country."

Washington —(AP)— Gratified at the reception given by congressional leaders to his proposals for spurring business, President Hoover turned today to attack difficulties in the financing of home building.

Secretary Lamont, as chairman of the president's conference on home construction and ownership, headed those invited to meet at the White House to devise more ways of easing credit to allow increased building.

The president in convinced credit for home building is not as satisfactorily organized as other branches of credit. To work against this situation, he called in prominent real estate men from various sections.

Upturns of the New York Stock exchange brought more encouragement to the White House. The president's main attention, however, went this afternoon to the real estate problem.

Examination of reports has convinced him the present system by which first and sometimes second mortgages are placed on homes, to permit purchase on what amounts to an installment plan with the various commissions and discounts involved, is stifling home ownership and leading to the loss of many homes through foreclosure.

He considers that nationwide planning of housing and some form of established credit would have a definite effect on unemployment.

Twenty-five committees under the leadership of prominent men and women have been set to study the various phases of the problem.

TAYLOR BOUND OVER TO U. S. GRAND JURY

Milwaukee —(AP)— Joseph H. Taylor, former chairman of the board of the McCarty National Bank, Green Bay, was bound over to the federal grand jury today by United States Commissioner Floyd E. Jenkins. Taylor was arraigned on charges of misapplying funds of the bank, which was closed by federal bank examiners and is now in the hands of receivers.

H. A. Sawyers, attorney for Taylor, waived preliminary hearing. The attorney said that he regarded it unwise to subject Taylor to a lengthy examination now in view of his ailing condition. For several weeks the banker has been a patient at a health resort near Oconomowoc.

Commissioner Jenkins allowed Taylor's bond to remain at $10,000. The bond has been sent to Green Bay for signatures of property holders, but it is understood that a surety bond will be substituted.

Rental Demand Still Continues

Mr. Aug. Goffin, 323 N. Morrison St., used Post-Crescent "Rental Classifieds" recently with telling effect.

He offered a small home for rent and he advises us that he had about 50 calls and that he rented the house after the second publication of the advertisement.

15 CONVENTIONS IN CITY SINCE FIRST OF YEAR

Thousands of Delegates and Visitors Were Brought to Appleton

Fifteen conventions have been held in Appleton since Jan. 1, bringing thousands of delegates to the city, according to chamber of commerce officials, who keep a complete record of annual meetings. Last year there were only eight conventions here.

This week two more conventions are being held here to bring the total to 17. Wednesday and Thursday the Wisconsin Chiropractic association is holding its annual meeting here, bringing approximately 300 more delegates and visitors to the city. On Oct. 10 the United Commercial Travelers will hold their annual conference in the city.

There are no other conventions scheduled for the remainder of this year, with the exception of the annual gathering and exhibition of the Fox River Valley Poultry and Pet Stock association at Armory G early in December.

The annual state bowling tournament of Elks clubs was the first big event to be held here. It opened on the Elks alleys on March 1, and continued until April 16. On April 1 and 2 district officers of the Salvation Army held a sectional meeting here.

Seven In May

Seven conferences were held here during May. On May 9 and 10, members of the Young Peoples Union of the Baptist church held a convention here, and on May 12 and 13 the district convention of Women's clubs was conducted. Goodyear Tire Co. dealers held a conclave here on May 15, and on May 18 there was the conference of the Fox River Valley Dental society.

State officers of the Junior Chamber of Commerce met here on Sunday, May 24, and on the following day eye, ear, nose and throat specialists held a convention.

The largest gathering of the year was held here on Sunday, May 31 when the Holy Name society rally of the Green Bay Diocese was held at Pierce park, bringing thousands to the city. Officers of the Wisconsin Association of Public Relief met here on June 22, 23 and 24, and on June 30 officials of the Norge association conducted their district convention. The annual convention of Aid Association for Lutherans was held on July 16, 17 and 18, and on Aug. 9, 10 and 11 the district convention of Kiwanis clubs was held here.

Another one of the largest gatherings held here during the year was the convention of Methodist churches on Sept. 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13. The last event was the Christian Endeavor convention of the Green Bay district on Sept. 25 and 26.

Members of the chamber of commerce convention committee which helped encourage organizations to hold their conferences here are: George C. Dame, chairman; Walter Hughes, George Richards, Eric Madisen, Max Bauer, William Jacobson and Charles Emden.

City Council Expected To Make Arrangements For $50,000 Loan

NEED FUNDS TO PAY BILLS FOR PAVING WORK

Will Be First Time City Has Borrowed Since New Term in April

For the first time since the opening of the new term in April, the city will borrow money. Approval of a loan of $50,000 or more will be asked at the meeting of the common council Wednesday evening.

The loan is necessary at this time because tonight paving bills amounting to about $30,000 must be paid, and a $6,000 refund to the county treasurer must be approved to cover the receipt of that amount by mistake. The income tax for Combined Locks was erroneously certified to Appleton last summer, and now the money must be returned.

In addition to this refund, the city this year suffers a loss of something over $20,000 income tax on the interstate division of the Consolidated Water Works and Paper company mill. Three or four years ago there was an overcharge for this amount, and this year it was deducted from the amount of income tax due the city.

It is hoped that the $25,000 to be realized on the sale of municipal paving bonds will tide the city over for a month after tomorrow's meeting.

Interest Saved

Because no money was borrowed until now, it is estimated that between $4,000 and $5,000 has been saved in interest this year. Last year by the first meeting in October the city had borrowed $155,000, according to Mayor John Goodland, Jr. This first year was made at the second meeting in April when $15,000 was borrowed.

A petition for an ornamental lighting system on Superior-st., from College-ave to a point beyond W. Washington-st., will be considered tonight. Bids on the new bridge over the Green Bay and Mississippi canal, on a power station, Alvin-st. sanitary sewer, and sewer stubs, will be discussed, and it is probable that the city engineer will submit plans for storm sewers to be laid this fall.

ARTILLERY BAND IN BENEFIT SHOW

Sponsoring Revue "Happy Days" to Be Staged at Lawrence Chapel

A benefit show for the 120th field artillery band will be staged at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Oct. 20, 22, according to Edward F. Mumm, director.

The production has been named "Happy Days" and will be staged in the form of a revue featuring all phases of dramatics, singing, dancing, and music. The production is being planned and directed by Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bannister. Local talent will take all the parts. Special scenery is being planned for the show, and an orchestra of not less than 25 pieces, and direction of Mr. Mumm, will play.

The artillery band has gained a national reputation by concerts played throughout the country. The band also is the Elk club band and has won national renown at conventions. More recently it won the state championship in a band contest staged at Sheboygan at the state Elk convention.

FALL RETAIL TRADE IS SHOWING INCREASE

Washington — (P) — Fall retail trade and the farm board's wheat sale to China supplied bright spots today in the spectrum of business and employment reported weekly to President Hoover's relief organization.

In Philadelphia, general business improved 2 per cent above the usual September seasonal increase. Employment was better in many stores and "steady improvement is looked for."

Retail sales were helping in Pittsburgh, Wilmington, Delaware, Norfolk, Virginia, Atlanta, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis, Chicago and Minneapolis.

Seattle and Portland, Ore., found the 15,000,000 bushels of wheat en route to China stimulated the milling business, shippers and related lines.

New York City reported a 13 per cent increase in applications for employment and a 14 per cent drop in placements. Detroit's September industrial activity was lower than August's, but some die and pattern shops reported September one of the best months in history.

LITTLE CHUTE MAN IS INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Martin Van Eppern, 40, Little Chute, is in St. Elizabeth hospital with injuries received in an automobile accident Monday evening. He has a fractured arm and severe body bruises.

The accident happened between Little Chute and Kimberly. In an attempt to avoid striking a boy on a bicycle, Bernard Van Schindie, Freedome, who was driving the car, collided with the rear of a Lamer's Dairy truck from Kimberly. The car, which tipped over, was only slightly damaged.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Two applications for marriage licenses were made today at the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk. They were made by the following couples: Joseph DeBruin, 35, Kaukauna, and Margaret Hoesche, 36, Appleton; Peter Delovort and May Van Wymeren, Little Chute.

135 CHIROPRACTORS REGISTER HERE FOR ANNUAL CONVENTION

Thomas A. Duncan, Governor's Secretary Will Be Speaker Tonight

With 135 members registered, the twentieth annual convention of the Wisconsin Chiropractic association opened today at Cotway hotel. The convention will be in session today and tomorrow.

Future expansion of the association in Wisconsin was the subject of discussion at the president, secretary, treasurer and board of directors meeting and breakfast this morning. Dr. J. K. Kiema, Kenosha, president.

The first general convention session was held at 10 o'clock this morning with President Kiema presiding. In his opening remarks he outlined the program for the convention and touched on the incident which recently occurred in Oklahoma when Gov. Murray made the statement that public hospitals, paid for by taxes, should be open to use by chiropractors, and osteopaths or others licensed by law to practice their professions.

Dr. A. W. Schowalter, Milwaukee, secretary, reported that the membership of the association is the largest since organization, while the treasurer, Dr. L. G. Moe, Racine, declared the financial status of the association is better than ever.

Other business scheduled for the morning session was postponed to this afternoon. A plate luncheon was served at noon.

Mayor Welcomes Members

The convention session was resumed this afternoon with an address of welcome by Mayor John Goodland, Jr. Reports of the various district governors were made and unfinished business from the morning sessions reported.

The annual dinner will be held this evening with an entertainment program featuring dance acts and music. The speaker will be Thomas A. Duncan, Madison, secretary to Governor Philip W. LaFollette. The annual dance will follow at 9 o'clock. Both the dinner and dance are informal.

Thursday morning sessions will be resumed at 10 o'clock with election of officers, presentation of resolutions and reading of the constitution and by-laws.

On Thursday afternoon there will be talks by Dr. Karl J. Hawkins, Davenport, Ia., and Jamie Heron, Chicago. Reports will be made by various committees and unfinished business will be presented.

LEVITAN ADDRESSES ST. MARY'S STUDENTS

Milwaukee — (P) — A well educated person is one who is prepared to face unforeseen situations intelligently and who realizes that he cannot succeed at the expense of his fellow men. State Treasurer Solomon Levitan said today in an address before students at Mount St. Mary's College here.

"In the old days a person with a college diploma was looked upon as an educated person," he said. "Today so simple a classification of the educated and uneducated is not acceptable. Proof of intelligence is demanded. If we do not put into practice what we know the observer of today doubts our claims to knowledge."

"The art of living is the greatest of all arts and might be said to include all art, for art in every phase demands true perspective and accurate thinking. Modern education should help every student to realize that his thinking and acting is either helping to build a better civilization or is retarding progress."

"Education is a continuous, progressive process, not something that is acquired within a few years in youth. The schools provide only a fundamental training, which helps you to react wisely to the education that comes with all social relations."

TRAFFIC CODE DESCRIBED BY MOTOR EXPERT

"Brownie" Advises Courtesy at All Times on Part of Drivers

The new tricks in the 1931 traffic code were briefly sketched by "Brownie," Milwaukee Journal travel expert, in a prefatory talk at Rotary club meeting at Hotel Northern Tuesday noon. After cursory survey of the new laws, the traveler took Rotarians on a motion picture tour of scenic Wisconsin and Canada, showing them the highest peak in Wisconsin, some of the picturesque falls, drives, and parks, and pictures of fishing in the northern waters.

Reminding his audience that a large number of persons than the population of Oshkosh is killed in motor accidents each year, the traveling Journal man said that it is time that drivers use the same courtesy.

Girls Also Liable

Snuggling up to the driver might cost a maiden more than a blush, if traffic officers have the strength of purpose to withstand the smiles of the fair sex.

"Brownie," Milwaukee Journal travel expert, in a speech at Rotary club Tuesday noon, explained that the new traffic law makes the cause of the one-way driving just as liable to arrest as the one-arm driver.

tesy in their driving that they use in driving their golf balls. He said while both roads and automobiles have improved, there has been little improvement in the art of driving.

He asked the Rotarians to become familiar with the new driving code and pointed out some of the changes which will affect every driver. Next year all licenses must be secured by Feb. 1, instead of March 15, and the fees on the larger cars will be increased. Licenses that cost $22, 24, and $28 this year will cost $26, $36, and $48 next year, "but," said Brownie, "you'll get more for your money because the plates will be like small billboards in size." There will be no classifications in the future, straight numbering being used through all classes of cars.

The new car owner will profit, for licenses can now be bought on a sliding scale.

Permit Is Necessary

In the past one could lose his driver's license on only four counts. Now violation of 36 different regulations can result in the recall of a license, and in many cases license plates can be commandeered with the licenses. In addition there are new complications to the age-old trick of transferring the license to the wife. It is now illegal for any person, even one just learning to drive, to sit behind a wheel without a permit.

There are new right-of-way provisions this year, he said, explaining that the driver on an arterial highway has no more right-of-way than the machine he is passing. It is illegal to place a "for sale" sign in a car and park it on a highway.

Speaking of Wisconsin's retarded road construction program, "Brownie" said city, township and county lines must be forgotten and cross state highways built if Wisconsin is to hold its position as the playground of the middlewest. He told of the circle of hard-surface roads built around the state by adjoining states, and of the 1,000 miles of highway constructed by Iowa during the year in which Wisconsin built only 400 miles.

The gas tax promise of employment for 10,000 Wisconsin men was not working out, he said. So far less than 5,000 have been employed on construction projects, and many of these are not residents of the state, despite the provision in the bill that all laborers engaged for these projects be residents of the state. He referred to an overhead project where it was found that 11 of the 15 men employed were from out of the state. Talking of the cost of the overheads, the speaker said it would be cheaper in some cases to buy the whole railroad and put it out of business than to build overheads.

Landis Tells Scouts About Bird Habits

A talk on bird migration was given by Dr. R. V. Landis at the weekly meeting of Troop 2 boy scouts at First Congregational church Tuesday evening. Dr. Landis, who has made an extensive study of bird life, presented many facts regarding the habits of various birds. The group also made preliminary plans for a hike on Saturday.

ASK REPORT ON NEED OF WARNING FLAGS

F. R. Appleton, highway commissioner, has been asked by the state highway commission to report at once on the number of patrolman's flags needed on state and county trunk highways this winter. The flags are used to mark those places where snow trucks, in use this winter, might run into obstructions which are covered by drifts.

FLASHES OF LIFE

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

London—Hyde Park society note—after the arrests, treatments not working out, a said shooting police after an unemployment riot, camped about a relief food wagon in the park and were served meals by a red-headed girl with an American accent, who said, "for once in your lives you are going to be waited upon."

Little Rock, Ark. — Citizens of Arkansas are going to get some free legislation. Members of the legislature have pledged themselves to hold a session without pay or expense allowance to consider cotton relief.

New York—John Muldoon banged on a neighbor's door and shouted, "Come on out and fight. I can lick you any day." His neighbor accommodated him. When an ambulance surgeon had patched him up John found himself under arrest. His neighbor was Patrolman Frank Adams, heavyweight champion of the police department.

SWIMMING CLASSES FOR WOMEN OPENED AT "Y"

Sixteen women today started the fall and winter swimming classes sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. at Appleton Women's club. Beginners in the matrons' class at 10 o'clock this morning learned to float, while more advanced members took their first lesson in the crawl under the direction of Mrs. John Mills, former college and Goucher college. Six classes will be held every Wednesday for matrons, children and professional women in the city.

Air Fireman

Flying the airmail between Chicago and Kansas City, Lewis Gravis, above, 24, discovered a fire on a house in Kirksville, Mo., the fifth he had spotted in three years. He dived and banked his plane, motor wide open, until he had notified the occupants, who scurried out to safety.

Y. M. C. A. WORKERS GET 180 MEMBERS

Association Seeking 1,300 Members and $21,000 for Current Year

One hundred eighty new members were reported by workers in the annual Y. M. C. A. membership drive when the group met for its first regular dinner last night. The membership drive has a value of $3,984.50. The association is seeking 1,300 members and $21,000.

The Ford division, headed by T. E. Orblison, reported the greatest number of members last evening, 53, with a value of $1,178. Plymouth division, headed by Dan C. Remley, was second with 32 members and $1,082. Bicycle division was third with 38 members and $988, and the Chevrolet division, headed by E. E. Sager, was fourth with 25 members and $621.

Winning team was that of C. E. Buchanan. The boys' division reported 26 memberships.

James A. Wood, general chairman of the drive, presided. The principal speaker was Dr. E. L. Bolton of the Bicycle division. W. O. Thiede, chairman of the sustaining membership committee, also spoke on how memberships which his committee secured would be apportioned.

Another report meeting will be held at 6:15 tonight at the association. Results of the first day's work were considered satisfactory. The drive is expected to close Oct. 9.

SCOUTS ENTERTAINED AT TELEVISION PARTY

Boy scouts of Troop 2, First Methodist church, entertained parents, friends and members of Troops 4 and 16 at a television party in the church parlors Tuesday evening. Television equipment, with which the scouts were able to get a program from a Chicago station, was furnished by the Hal Radio shop. Games and stunts also furnished entertainment. H. H. Brown, scoutmaster, arranged the program.

LANDIS TELLS SCOUTS ABOUT BIRD HABITS

A talk on bird migration was given by Dr. R. V. Landis at the weekly meeting of Troop 2 boy scouts at First Congregational church Tuesday evening. Dr. Landis, who has made an extensive study of bird life, presented many facts regarding the habits of various birds. The group also made preliminary plans for a hike on Saturday.

COLDER WEATHER ON MENU FOR THURSDAY

Probable showers and another drop in temperature has been predicted for Appleton and vicinity for the next 24 hours.

Skies will be cloudy throughout this part of the state Wednesday night and Thursday. The weatherman says.

Nearly 12 inches of rain fell here Tuesday night, according to George Allaman, Menasha lock tender and official weather vender for this district. Rain was reported throughout the central portions of the state.

Winds are shifting in the north and northwest, promising colder weather. At 6 o'clock Wednesday morning the mercury registered 50 degrees above zero, while at noon it registered 68 degrees above.

APPLETON WOMAN IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Mrs. Amanda Wilson, 28, Appleton was granted a divorce by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court this morning from her husband, F. E. Wilson, 32, Appleton. Mrs. Wilson was granted the decree on a counter-claim after her husband instituted the suit for divorce. He did not contest her suit and did not present his own case. Mrs. Wilson was granted custody of a minor child and $20 per month for his support. She charged cruelty and abandonment, claiming her husband drank, treated her badly and that he drank. The Wilsons were married in Appleton, June 1, 1929, and separated Aug. 28, 1931.

Building Permits

Two building permits were issued Tuesday by John N. Welland, building inspector. They were granted to William Neumann, 1612 N. Drew-st., residence and two car garage, cost $8,000; Mrs. R. C. Clark, 1320 W. Washington-st., one car garage, cost $75.

ONE DEAD, FIVE HURT AS POLICE AND REDS CLASH

Eviction of Negro Family Blamed for Communist Riot in Cleveland

Cleveland — (P) — One man was shot to death and five others injured, two of them policemen, in a riot last night which police said started in a Communist demonstration against the eviction of a Negro family.

The outbreak—the second led by Communists here in the last two nights—began when three policemen went to see why a mob of 500 had collected in front of the home where the family had been evicted earlier in the day.

As a woman shouted, "All right, let's go," the angry crowd surged around the trio of policemen, they said, and attacked them.

In the following struggle, one Negro was shot to death, two others were wounded, Lieut. Owen E. McAdams was injured and Patrolman Walter Wingate was beaten on the head with clubs.

Lieut. McAdams, leader of the police squad, was pulled down from behind, he said, and was shot by his own gun as he grappled with his assailants. Patrolman Arthur Bockhousen, the third member of the squad, and McAdams opened fire, hitting three of the rioters.

A hundred police were rushed into the area of the fighting at E. 47th-st and Woodland-ave in the Negro section, and dispersed the crowd which by that time had grown to 1,000.

The dead man was tentatively identified as Edward D. Jackson, about 45. In his pockets were an open jack-knife and Communist literature.

Eleven men and two women were held for investigation. One of them was a known communist organizer, police said, and two others were suspected of having led the attack.

Monday night 600 unemployed and Communist layed a meeting for the city council and created such an uproar that the meeting was delayed an hour until the leaders had been ejected.

TAKE TESTIMONY IN CASES UNDER WORKMEN'S ACT

Compensation Sought for Man Who Died Last July from Sunstroke

Compensation for the death of Ap-ton Derus, Kaukauna, who died from sunstroke on July 1, was sought in a hearing before the Wisconsin Industrial commission at city hall Wednesday morning. It is claimed that Mr. Derus died as the result of heat prostration which occurred while he was working for the Chicago and Northwestern railroad company. Mr. Derus was working in a box car with acetylene lamps on June 30, 1931, one of the hot days of last summer.

Testimony in the cases of William Brandt, 1603 W. Spencer-st., Appleton, against the Stebbins Engineering and Manufacturing company and the Consolidated Water Power and Paper company and of George Gottschalk, 129 N. Story-st., Appleton, against the Bowman Dairy company, was also taken this morning.

Mr. Brandt asks compensation for lead poisoning which he maintains developed while he was working for the defendants. Mr. Gottschalk claims he was permanently disabled when his feet and an arm were burned on Oct. 11, 1929, at Nichols by steam in a hot boiler.

An attempt to determine the extent of loss of vision was made in the hearing of the case of William Tennessen, Kaukauna, against the Farm Equipment company, held yesterday afternoon. A piece of steel from a chisel struck Tennessen in the eye on May 14, 1930, while he was employed by the Farm Equipment company.

In another hearing Tuesday afternoon John Becker, 413 W. College-ave, Appleton, sought compensation from the Northern Transportation company for injuries to his leg received Jan. 28, 1931, when a radiator fell on his leg. The third case heard yesterday was that of Herman Born, Pella, against George Millard. Mr. Born injured his legs on April 2, 1930, when he fell under the wheel of a truck after he had jumped from the truck into loose sand.

MOVE STATE BANK TO NEW QUARTERS

Expect to Rush Construction Work on Main Entrance and Lobby

Although the main entrance and lobby has not yet been completed, the Appleton State bank has been moved to its newly remodeled quarters in the old bank building. Employees have taken possession of their new cages, and the new vault and booths for safety deposit boxes have been put into operation.

When stone and other building material for the entrance and lobby arrives work will be rushed to complete the job, according to bank officials. The new front will harmonize with the stonework of the building.

The public auditorium in the basement probably will be completed in the next two weeks, officials say. Preliminary work on the large room has been completed. Chairs, tables and other equipment will be furnished. The auditorium will be turned over for public meetings, parties, and other functions.

67 LOADS RUBBISH COLLECTED BY CITY

Sixty-seven loads of rubbish were collected by the street department during the second monthly rubbish collection of the year. Two days were required to canvass the entire city.

Last month, the first collection since the annual cleanup in May, 82 loads were collected. All rubbish is being dumped in private ravines on Fifth, Atlantic and South-sts.

8 JURY CASES ARE LISTED FOR TRIAL MONDAY

Suit Against Sheriff Lappen and His Son Is on Calendar

Eight jury cases are listed for trial at a special session of the September term of circuit court which will open at 10 o'clock Monday morning before Judge Edgar V. Werner at the courthouse. Copies of the calendar have been prepared by Sydney M. Shannon, clerk of courts, and sent to all attorneys interested in the cases.

One of the cases on the calendar is that of Louis Gegare, Green Bay, versus Sheriff John Lappen, Sr., and his son, Deputy Sheriff John Lappen, Jr. Gegare is asking damages of $5,000 for an alleged permanent injury to his arm when he was shot by the younger Lappen during a dance hall brawl at an Oneida dance hall early this spring. Gegare was in the hospital for some time, and while he was released he was arrested and sent to the county jail for 30 days for disorderly conduct. The charge was placed against him as a result of his part in the dance hall fight.

Other cases on the calendar include: Martin Wunderlich versus Garvey Weyenberg Construction company; H. F. Schroeder versus Frank E. John, Green Bay; John F. Bloomer, W. A. Zimmer versus John M. Balliet; Howard McGuire, et al, versus Tillie Schab, et al; J. W. Dungegan versus John Heenan, et al; Krasno Quality Egg company versus Sidney Khurfild.

DEATHS

REUBEN GETSCHOW

Funeral services for Reuben Gutschow, 21, son of Mrs. Adda Gutschow, 223 W. Pacific-st., who died Sunday of injuries received in a football game at Elmhurst college, Sept. 25, were held at the Wichman funeral home this afternoon. Rev. F. C. Reuter of First English Lutheran church had charge of the services. President Timothy Lehman of Elmhurst college gave a short talk. Burial was in Riverside cemetery.

Bearers were Carl Kurbath, Harold Bloom and W. Peters of the Elmhurst football team and Ben Pfeiffer, Ray Koepke and Charles Schaefer of Appleton.

Those from out of town who attended the services were President Timothy Lehman of Elmhurst; Robert Stanger, dean of men, Coach Ralph Curtis and Assistant Coach Al Reed, and William Melberg, C. Kurbat, William Smotherman, O. Davis, L. Hutzler, A. Ebbling, Al Behle, I. Wintermeyer, H. Wintermeyer, J. Holden, James Gutschick, John Decker, A. Drausko, W. Peters, V. Warner, R. Eylers, F. Hoerd, R. Reed and Harold Blohm of the Elmhurst football team.

Carl Kurbat, J. Brown, E. Hooker, A. Reimler, J. Kizatto, M. Black, Harold Schade, Hillis Cash, H. Barth, William Henry, Edward Robert, Merle Froehlich, all Elmhurst students, and Miss Antonette Rathner and mother of St. Louis, and Miss Bernice Elbert.

Members of Appleton high school football team attended the services in a body.

MRS. MARY ULMAN

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Ulman was held at St. Joseph church Tuesday morning. The service was held at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph church. Burial was in St. Joseph cemetery. Bearers were George, Henry, Carl, Raymond, and Edward Ulman, and Joseph J. Nigl, Kaukauna.

PLANNING COMMISSION DENIES ONE PETITION

One petition was denied and decision on two others was deferred at a meeting of the planning commission at city hall Tuesday afternoon. The group refused to recommend the transfer of the southeast corner of Memorial-dr and Seymour-st. Bouten plat, Fourth ward, into the local business district, and held over the requests to place lots 1 and 8, block 21, Edward West plat, Fourth ward, in the local business district.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR RETAIL FUND DRIVE

Plans for soliciting money for a retail fund were discussed by the retail division of the chamber of commerce in the chamber offices Tuesday. A committee composed of H. A. Gloudehans, Joseph Langenberg and Henry Marx was appointed to set a quota for the drive. The committee will report at another meeting of the division early next week.

BELIEVE STIMSON WILL SET RECORD FOR VISITS ABROAD

State Secretary Believes He Should Handle Foreign Affairs Personally

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Secretary of State Harry Stimson, who thinks secretaries should go abroad and handle their most important diplomacy personally instead of through ambassadors, has been working hard to get a two-month trip during which he conferred with European statesmen about the forthcoming Geneva gathering, causes him to be regarded as the most effective among men who might be assigned to the job.

Appearance of an American secretary of state at three such momentous conferences will appear to be another step toward the rather spurious theory of isolation in our international relations and definitely mark the beginning of a new system of diplomacy. Five other secretaries have visited foreign nations, but usually only to make a bow, sign a document or perform some gracious gesture. The new policy of personal contacts has been adopted by Stimson, which Stimson has adopted with the approval of President Hoover, is based on the same line of thought as led to the visit of Hoover to South America in 1923 as president-elect and Premier Ramsay MacDonald's visit to Washington in 1923.

Stimson says a man in his position needs to get personal intimacies of foreign ministers and premiers to aid him in dealing with them and that knowledge can facilitate quick, intelligent decisions. Communications through ambassadors are usually quite formal and not as dependable, when it comes to interpretation or complete understanding, as the personal exchanges between two principals.

The Geneva naval conference of 1927 blew up for lack of adequate preliminary negotiations, teaching the State Department a lesson. MacDonald's conversations with Hoover here in advance of the London conference and Stimson's recent talks with the highest officials at Rome, Paris, London and Berlin were designed to smooth the way so as to avoid any more such complete failures.

Stimson was pleased by the intimate contacts he made. He went motorboat-speeding with Mussolini, found that German Chancellor Bruening had been a machinist in the game war sector in 1918, gave a salbuto to the grandaughter of Foreign Minister Curtius for which he received a letter of thanks addressed "Dear Uncle Stimson" and fooled around pigsties and sheep pens in Scotland with MacDonald.

When the secretary goes abroad he is seen in the position of the head of a firm inspecting his branch offices. Heart to heart talks with American ambassadors and consuls are regarded as sometimes more valuable than the reading of type-written reports.

It is likewise possible for Stimson, in his globe-trotting, to talk with financiers and other important officials, personages with whom he would never come in contact if he stayed at home.

The department records appear to show that the first secretary of state to go abroad was Elihu Root, who in 1908 visited various countries of South America and made some frank explanations of American policies. President Wilson's accompanied President Wilson to the Paris peace conference, Bainbridge Colby visited Brazil to open some sort of an exposition. Charles Evans Hughes went to South America to unveil a statue dedicated to Pan-American friendship and later to Europe as president of the American Bar Association. In Europe Hughes also traveled and talked with various national leaders. Frank B. Kellogg sailed to Paris to sign the Kellogg peace treaty and to return the call made here by President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State.

STATE FOREST SERVICE WILL BE REORGANIZED

Immell Says New Group Will Be Similar to That of Federal Service

Madison—(P)—Complete reorganization of the state forest protection service, along the lines of the federal forestry service, was announced today by Adjutant General Ralph M. Immell, of the conservation commission.

The new organization will have one primary objective to start out with, General Immell said. That is to reduce the extent of forest fires to one half per cent of the total acreage of forest lands in the state. If it is possible a still smaller area of burn will be strived for, he said.

The new setup embodies the fixing of responsibility upon the wardens of the four forest areas recently established. They will be held accountable to General Immell for the performance of all their subordinates.

An inspection of lookout towers will be required twice a year, their condition to be reported to the department. The wardens will be charged with seeing that detection equipment is complete and usable at all times and that telephone lines, which will be extended to each tower, as well as transportation routes, are kept open during the fire season.

The whole plan is contained in the Fire Manual for the Forest Protection Organization, which Gen. Immell has drawn up in cooperation with R. B. Goodman, of Marinette, who served in an advisory capacity. They were appointed to the conservation commission by Governor LaFollette early last month.

The personnel of the service will include permanent and seasonal employees. The executive officer and his staff, the area wardens and district rangers will make up the permanent personnel. Emergency wardens, sub-rangers, guards, tower men, cooperators and improvement crews will form the seasonal organization during the fire season.

The cooperators, including the American Legion posts which have organized emergency fire fighting forces, timber operators, county organizations, public service groups and all settlers in strategic locations will be considered as the second line of defense.

Must Agree

The manual says that every cooperating group leader must agree to accept fully the responsibility assigned to him to an extent that justifies dependence on proper individual action.

To reduce the area of burn to one half per cent of the total forest lands six, intermediate objectives are outlined by the manual as follows:

All smokes must be reported to district and area headquarters before the fire exceeds 2 acres in size. The report must include the fire location to the nearest section.

First or second line of defense will reach the fire within one hour, equipped to undertake suppression.

A communication system will be established with district and area headquarters to enable dispatching of adequate reinforcements in case of need.

All fires will be under control

Tibbet Busy Making Film And Preparing For Concert

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Copyright, 1931, By Cons. Press
Hollywood—(CPA)—Lawrence Tibbett is of the opinion that a singer with the itch is no busier than a singer with a picture in one hand and a concert tour in the other. Tibbett is finishing a musical picture called "The Cuban" for before 10:00 a. m. of the succeeding day.

No fire will be permitted to smoulder during relatively safe periods, but will be promptly extinguished.

No fire will be considered under control until the responsible officer is willing to accept full responsibility for the possibility of further spread.

Every fire will be patrolled at all times until it is completely extinguished.

The manual provides that each area warden prepare an organization chart, fixing responsibilities so that the objectives may be attained. No cooperator is to be enlisted until he has accepted the responsibility and has been furnished with an organization chart.

Fire plans to be submitted to the executive officer by the area wardens will show: the location of equipment, man power, including co-operators, telephone lines, lookout towers, usable roads and fire breaks. The fire plan is to be revised by each warden and submitted during March of each year.

Law enforcement will be to the wardens within the area of their jurisdiction. Man caused fires will be considered law enforcement cases until facts indicate otherwise.

M-G-M and likewise preparing for a six months' stretch of concert singing hither and thither over the United States.

The catch in this activity is that Tibbett may have to do the final retakes of the picture at practically the same moment at which he appears in a concert at Portland, Ore. In that case he will leap from the camera to his trusty airplane and reach the Portland concert hall just in time to draw a deep breath before his first high note. However, that's all the time a trained singer needs.

Meanwhile the Tibbett activity throws an interesting sidelight on the return of the musical picture. It has returned at nearly all the studios but singers of reputation are not inclined to lean too trustfully upon musical movie contracts. The singers if established reputation are inclined to keep a card up their sleeves in the shape of concert tours, opera appearances and so on.

Tibbett is not among those singers who were thrown over by the producers when terrible musical pictures caused a slump in songs on the screen. But for several months the public heard less and less about Tibbett from the motion picture people.

Now that good musical pictures are due for a comeback, the producers

LOW DEATH RATE IN STATE IN AUGUST

Madison—(P)—The death of 2,175 persons in August marked the lowest August mortality total in five years in Wisconsin, the state board of health reported today.

There were 43 less deaths from violent causes than in August, 1930, including a reduction of 32 deaths by drowning and 29 from auto accidents.

There were 45 pneumonia victims, representing a reduction of 32 from the same month last year. There were only two deaths from diphtheria, seven less than in August, 1930. Whooping cough claimed six deaths as compared with 11 last year.

Cancer was neither checked nor did it extend the number of victims. The August toll of 265 duplicated that of the same month last year. A total of 116 persons died from tuberculosis, one more than in August, 1930.

There may in many instances find it difficult to sign up good singers on whole-time contracts. Good singers, as well as good composers, are thinking twice these days before boarding a train for Hollywood. They haven't forgotten that if the art of music had been capable of dying it would have died, chiefly of indigestion, in the cinema capital about a year ago.

HIGH SCHOOL CLUB OUTLINES PROGRAM

Students Will Make Study of German Music and Culture

According to the outlined program for the year of the German club of Appleton high school many projects will be undertaken by members. The club was organized last year in the interest of the study of German. This group of students plans to study German music and culture, they have made plans to bring several speakers before the club, to create a scholarship for the outstanding German student in school and to prepare several exhibits.

The group met Monday afternoon at the high school, with Wilmar Stach presiding. Miss Sophia Haase, German teacher, is the sponsor. The next meeting, Monday, Oct. 19, will concern German culture and customs. An outside speaker, not chosen as yet, will address the group at the afternoon meeting. Monday, Nov. 2, Thanksgiving will be the subject of the first meeting in November with a German exhibit for all students and teachers at the second meeting in the month. German Christmas carols will supply the program for the afternoon meeting.

Dec. 14. The club also is interested in German drama and several of the group are working on a German play.

FRENCH EXPORTS UP
Paris — Despite business conditions, French aviation exports are increasing steadily. During the first five months of 1931 the value of aviation exports was about $2,250,000, as compared with $3,200,000 in the corresponding period of 1930. Land planes constituted nearly all of the plane exports.

MORE USE FOR SCHOOL BUILDINGS

The question of the greater use of our public school buildings and equipment, which comes up for attention at intervals, is again under consideration by the board of education. It frequently has been pointed out, in Appleton and various other communities of the country, that public school buildings and equipment get too little use to yield the returns that might be realized on the investment of such large sums of the people's money.

In many communities this has been remedied by making school buildings, at least during the months of their maintenance for school purposes, serve the adults of the district or neighborhood for recreational and educational purposes. They are paying for them, so they should have the opportunity of getting something out of them besides a few hours use a day for their children, or their neighbors' children.

Cities and rural communities that have taken hold of the problem have made the school house a social, recreational and educational center for the entire community, instead of an educational center for the young alone. A program that meets the needs and desires of those in the district is carried out, offering opportunity for adult education as well as for amusement and sociability. The buildings are there. They are kept clean and heated during the school year.

While the needs of Appleton are not like those of cities with a greater percentage of foreign population and congested residence districts, yet school buildings and grounds, which represent a big investment of public money and a constant drain on the taxpayer for maintenance, could be made to yield far greater returns with very little additional expense; and so fill the normal, and now enforced, increased leisure of our city with interesting, helpful, and altogether worthwhile occupations and amusements.

Volunteer instructors and leaders for groups could be found among those in the community who have the knowledge and experience, and the time and willingness to impart it to others. Reading rooms and libraries could be made to serve the greater number without additional cost. There could be opportunities for quiet social games, and some of the livelier ones, too, for that matter. In some neighborhoods the "Little Theatre" movement would find most enthusiastic support. Any number of avenues for the development of a better social life would open up. A closer and more sympathetic relation between the home and the school would inevitably result.

Summer recreation for Appleton has become well established in the directed playground program carried out for several seasons. As yet it includes too few adults. If this were expanded to a year-round program, indoors and out, for everybody, it would certainly prove a big factor in the well-being and happiness of all of us.

We feel that the board of education should receive all possible support in the proposed school-sponsored recreational program, both from official sources and from the citizens in all parts of the community. Our schools, playgrounds and parks are here. Let us make them serve us better.

EDUCATION IN HONESTY

The Institute of School Experimentation, Columbia University, is using an "honesty" test, not to prove that some children cheat in school, but to find out how to prevent cheating by proper methods of education.

"In the light of recent scientific studies," explains a rather pedantic faculty member, "honesty is to be looked upon as a matter of achievement. It is the result of specific habits that have been learned and acquired, subject to change and modification. The result of a test which registers a certain degree of learned honesty or learned deceit is thus a measure of one aspect of educational achievement. Any degree of deceit objectively recorded is a measure of that amount of deficiency in the child's education. In this case the school as well as the home should take steps toward remedial treatment."

If colleges could only tell the public such things in plain English! There have been wise parents and wise teachers in the past who have known that most children were not really bad when they lied or cheated. They have gone about correcting this difficulty with understanding and patience. It is a step forward, however, when this fact is made a matter of scientific knowledge, to be applied for the benefit of boys and girls who would have been neglected or made less honest by older methods of education.

RURAL RUSSIA

A more reliable picture of what Russia really is may be gathered from the travelogue of Joan Platt of Wyoming who accomplished the arduous feat of driving from Berlin to Moscow recently in an auto, perhaps the first person who ever had the hardihood to undertake such a journey, than in the conflicting stories of those who go to a few of its cities.

"It was an unforgettable trip," said Miss Platt. "The roads, if they can be called that, often were worse than the roughest Wyoming trails. Our bed was often in haystacks because hotels were not available and in order to get anything to eat you had to forage for it."

At times the party had to drive along parallel with the railroad track either because roads could not be found or those available were impassable.

Of course gasoline stations were not around but appeal to the soviet officials brought forth sufficient gas and oil which was given with the compliments of the government.

"In every town where the car stopped," continues Miss Platt, "gaping crowds immediately gathered as if they had never seen an automobile and sometimes the local police had to be called out to clear a way through the curious throngs and keep them from climbing over the car."

Most of those who go to Russia and return home to tell or write about it are limited in their experiences to a rapid trip through the country and a visit to large cities where everything may, or may not, be arranged for the best appearance possible.

Aside from the cities, Miss Platt's experience indicates that Russia would be now described the same as by those who accompanied Napoleon on his drive to Moscow over a century ago.

AFRAID OF HISTORY

Who's afraid of history? There's no use guessing "school children." That is the wrong answer.

Politicians, patriotic organizations and 100 per centers are afraid of history. There was that matter of the Yorktown celebration, preparations for which revealed the fact that a lot of earnest citizens were afraid to show in the historic pageant they were planning that Cornwallis surrendered to Washington away back there in 1781.

Recently there was the George Arliss talkie, "Alexander Hamilton," production of which brought out the fact that some folks—producers or politicians—were afraid of treading on partisan toes. In making that picture, therefore, it seemed necessary to some one to distort history a little to cloak an old scandal behind a fictitious character.

There is the matter of history textbooks, which crops up almost annually in one part of the country or another. Some citizens are afraid to have pupils learn that any of the nation's founding fathers were human and made human mistakes of judgment or character, or that any British statesmen of our Revolutionary period were just and intelligent.

There are other matters, too, which show a strange fear of history. Perhaps these terrors are only evidence of America's youthfulness. It is pleasant to be young, but won't it be still more pleasant when we have grown up enough to shed these fears of historical truths?

A LOT of things to talk about but not much of importance . . . started to rain yesterday so people began to ask whether it was raining in Philadelphia . . . people should look at maps before they ask questions like that . . . the trans-Pacific fliers got across . . . something funny about their case . . . the Japanese fined them a thousand bucks each for flying over fortifications . . . then a Japanese newspaper gives them a check for $25,000 for sitting across the biggest ocean . . .

We're trying to write the column in front of the radio while Tuesday's world series is coming through between the static. Trying is right. All we can think about is the fact that Percy Hoover threw out the first ball Monday and an umpire had to catch it. If Herb had whipped a neat toss to second base and taken a turn at bat, he might have picked up a lot of support.

And, as chill breezes whistle under the door and rain drips dismally off the roof, the baseball announcer keeps reminding us how hot it is down there in Philadelphia.

The Spanish are rioting over high rents. They should adopt the good old American custom of moving before the first of the month and letting the landlord do the rioting.

Marlene Dietrich is being sued to the tune of $500,000 for breach of promise by the wife of a big shot in the movie business. Of course, folks Marlene has a husband of her own, but that doesn't make any difference in Hollywood. Maybe the other lady didn't even know that Marlene has any marital attachment. Maybe Marlene forgot it. Dumno.

"Jonah," says the boss, "meet me here after lunch. We've got some work to do."

"Sure," we says, "when?"

"What time is the series over?" asks the boss.

"Oke."

And that was all because the boss had answered his own question.

Somebody tried to sell some counterfeit football tickets up in Green Bay and the natives are up in arms. What with the district attorney playing football, the poor devils who got caught will be lucky to get off with any less than twenty years. There haven't been any reports of mob violence. Not yet, anyway.

THE PROBLEM

When the fire has burned the building and the stock it held is gone

And there's nothing left but ruin for the eye to behold

Though the loss is hard, my brother, there is nothing left to do

But to start that very minute to begin to build anew

Every day presents a problem man must solve as best he can

Do we need a morning sunny, rain may force a change of plan

Each must face life as he finds it, not as he would have it be

Of his hopes and dreams and labors there can be no guarantee

When the ship goes down, my brother, and you're clinging to a spar

There's no time to wall your losses till again on land you are

Looking backward then is folly, you must fight as we're before

For the problem of the moment is to get yourself to shore

Now a changing world we're facing, things our hopes were built upon

Have come tumbling down in tumult till the last of them is gone

And our problem of the moment is that suddenly we've come

Out of valleys gay with pleasure unto mountains towering grim

All our days of ease are ended, now the road grows rough and steep

And we find our burdens heavy and the pathway hard to keep

We have had our hours of laughter, comes today a sterner time

Mountains grim loom up before us which with courage we must climb

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Oct. 10, 1906

Edward Dempsey, chairman of the democratic county committee, had announced that he had positive assurance that William Jennings Bryan was to be in Appleton that fall for a campaign address.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Hackbert and child returned the previous day from a month's vacation trip through various parts of the state.

The marriage of Jesse Emily Pierce, Appleton, to Charles William Turner, Colorado Springs, Colo., took place at noon that day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey Pierce, 1086 Second-st.

The Misses Madeline Cole and Katherine Kuttler were at Green Bay that day as the guests of friends.

TEN YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Oct. 5, 1921

A tentative budget calling for appropriations amounting to $240,000 for road improvement and maintenance work in Outagamie-co. for the next year was drawn up at a meeting of the county highway and bridge committee the previous Monday afternoon.

Miss Ruth Welmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Welmer, 421 Washington-st., and S. Bertram Rindal, Rhinelander, were married at Waaukegan, Ill., on Sept. 12.

The marriage of Miss Erna Buss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Buss, Appleton, to John Sommerfeld, Milwaukee, took place Sept. 30 at Waaukegan, Ill.

Miss Clara Quella returned the previous Tuesday from Lanark after spending a few days with friends.

Miss Betty Lang left the previous Tuesday for Chicago to attend the wedding of a relative.

Eugene Campbell and P. H. Ryan left on a motor trip that day.

NOW, THEN, PULL YOURSELF TOGETHER

Recently some correspondent sent in a mean one that has been bothering me nights when—or rather mornings when I am relaxing for sleep. The correspondent asked me to explain the meaning of the common exhortation to "pull yourself together."

In the oracle business any little thing like that upsets you, and you find yourself reverting to it whenever you have a moment to relax. Not a bad habit, either, this one of thinking along a line so suggested, thinking in installments, for the subject up before you left off last time. Here and there you come within sight of known or established landmarks, and if you make it your practice to pause briefly and look such landmarks over, or even to take little side excursions to consult authorities they suggest, your exploration is more likely to be worth while.

Not that I have made any discovery of note in my meditations on the significance of "pull yourself together." But just that I believe this habit of cogitating divers little questions is a good one and many young persons particularly should cultivate the habit in place of day dreaming or idle or aimless musing or contemplation. It is organized or orderly thinking instead of mere drifting. At reasonable intervals you pull yourself together and find your position in relation to the premises or idea from which you took off.

I have recommended here the practice of belly breathing as an aid to relaxation and composing oneself for rest or sleep at night. I don't believe I do much think while I am going thru with this little rite myself. But I do believe the exercise aids in general relaxation and puts one in a suitable condition for a little profitable thinking for a time before one falls off to sleep.

Any reader who wishes to practice belly breathing may have the instructions on request, (no clipping). Enclose stamped envelope bearing your address. The belly breathing helps to lower excessive blood pressure.

A lot of folks in the habit of loose thinking are also in the habit of slouching physically. That is, they have poor posture when sitting or standing or walking. If such folk could be induced to cultivate better posture, better carriage, they generally develop better judgment and will power if not more efficient thinking capacity.

Here are a few practical suggestions for better posture:

1. Never mind your chest.

2. Don't try to throw back your shoulders.

3. Don't turn out your toes.

4. Always stand, sit or walk as if supporting the ceiling on your head, or as the carrying a large basket of bananas balanced on your head.

5. When standing or walking hold yourself as the trying to look over a wall on top.

6. Sit with your feet flat on the floor, heels thrust inside imaginary high collar.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

When Start Child in School

At what age should our son enter school? He is 5 years old. There is no child in the neighborhood.

Answer—If you mean you can't teach him elementary things, start him in school now, or within the present year, perhaps the second term. Where the parents are capable of teaching a child to spell and count and recognize simple pictures and a few simple words, 3 years of age is the right time to start him in school. Where the parents are too dumb, it is better to send the child to school at the age of 6 years—otherwise he will be unable to keep up with the normal class.

If the doctor told you your dad, aged 68, had cancer of the stomach and it is too late to do anything, would you just wait and watch for his death? (M. T.)

Answer—No. Dad should be told. There may be things he would wish to do or things he would not do. He has had 68 years of life, so he has no kick coming.

Ears Stop Running, Wants Slink Away

Massachusetts reader writes: Just a line to thank you for the drops for my running ear, and to tell you that it has entirely cleared up. I used the drops only two weeks. Also I wish to say I enjoy your column very much. It is always helpful as well as entertaining. (Mrs. G. G. H.)

Kansas reader writes: My son used your lotion for growth of hair on a bald spot as large as a dollar. The spot is now entirely covered with new hair, for which we are thankful to Dr. Brady. (Mrs. J. C. S.)

Michigan reader writes: Reading in your column about the use of castor oil as an application for warts we tried it. Our 4 year old boy had a wart on his elbow. It has now disappeared. (Mrs. E. B.)

Answer—And that isn't all. Our North Dakota reader reports that he had suffered much from cold feet, but he cut out this column and wore it inside his shoes and now his feet are nice and warm.

Pus Pockets in Gums

I greet you as a friend. For 20 years I suffered much with varicose veins. On your suggestion I had the doctor obliterate them. Now they are gone and I feel grateful. My dentist is unable to overcome pus pockets that form in my gums. I use boric acid solution with a little phenol in it as mouthwash. (Indianapolis)

Answer—I suggest rather mouth wash of weak iodine solution.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE boats seemed they would be real sport, with large sails of a real queer sort. One tall mast rose up in the air to hold the monstrous sail. Right now the sails were rolled up tight and shortly Scouty Tynmite said, "My, they look too big to stand the pressure of a gale."

"Oh, no," replied the Travel man. "Then to one of the boats he ran. 'I'll ask the man to spread his sail. You'll see it's strong,' said he. The man, who turned out very kind, said, 'Certainly! I do not mind.' And, as the big sail was unrolled, it was a sight to see.

The man then asked the boys if they would like to sail out on the bay. "Oh, sure," they loudly shouted. "Take us right now, if you please. We'll sit as quiet as mice. Just try us out and you will see." Then Coppy said, "It should be fine, 'cause there's a real nice breeze."

"Hop in," exclaimed the man. And they were shortly on their merry way. The sailboat smoothly skimmed along and didn't even rock. They rode for 'bout an hour and then slipped right by to the shore again. "We thank you," cried the Tynmites, as they jumped to the dock.

A walking merchant came their way and Clowny loudly shouted, "Say, what are those things he's carrying? Why, each one has a face." "They're coconuts, carved very neat. He sells them all along the street," replied the friendly Travel Man. "You'll see him every place."

The man then held one out and said, "How's that for quite a funny head?" One Tiny took it in his hand and answered, "Gee, it's rare! It's real enough to start to talk. With legs, I'll bet that it could walk. How grand 'twould be for hallowe'en, to give all kids a scare."

(The Tynmites have some more fun in the next story.)

An old-timer is one who remembers when "getting away with murder" was just a facetious expression.

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — It's probably just as well that the senate was not in session when Washington newspapers recently gave front page display to two-column pictures of that angular, soft-voiced senator from Utah—Reed Smoot—tugged out in cowboy chaps.

One could hardly imagine Pat Harrison, balter of republicans, permitting such a picture to go by unnoticed. Were he to do so, it would be about the first time that a senator ranking republican on the powerful senate finance committee—that body which frames tariff bills and the like.

Both are good friends, though on different sides of the political fence. But Harrison does like to "ride" the seriously-minded Smoot.

Glancing Darts

It's not often that he is successful in kidding the senator from Utah. Smoot declines to be made the goat of the Mississippian's jibes.

Sometimes he walks out on him. At other times he sits at his desk on the floor, apparently absorbed in a stack of papers before him and completely ignoring Harrison's thrusts.

But that doesn't deter the senator from Mississippi. Perhaps he has an idea that Smoot hears him despite the air of absorption in other things.

Smoot never attempts to jibe back at Harrison in a light vein. His voice is thin, and a quavering note is evident when this lean, lank, gray-haired Utahn engages in heated debate.

He possesses an inquisitive mind and frequently confounds proponents of measures with his marshaling of information against their cause.

He can put up a stiff opposition if he desires. For days at a time he bore the brunt of the democratic assault on the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill.

He holds the senate record for continuous speaking. Once he spoke for 11 hours and 35 minutes with only momentary halts and without once moving away from his desk.

Three Recreations

One of Smoot's rules of life is hard work. It is broken by three things.

He plays golf. It is not unusual to see him on a public course of the capital early in the morning, executing methodical strokes in an effort to break 100.

He likes vaudeville. In the days when this form of entertainment was popular, he was a regular patron of the old Keith's theater in the capital.

And he is a frequent and enthusiastic visitor to Washington's zoo in Rock Creek park.

Today's Anniversary

URUGUAY IN BREAK

On Oct. 7, 1917, Uruguay officially broke relations with Germany by decree of the president.

All of the functionaries were ordered to withdraw from German territory.

The Chamber of Deputies voted in favor of the rupture by 74 to 23. The president of Uruguay previously (June 20) had issued an order announcing that "no American country which, in defense of its own right, should find itself in a state of war with nations of other continents, will be treated as a belligerent."

President Viera, in his message to Parliament, declared that the Uruguayan government had not received any direct offense from Germany, but that it was necessary to espouse the cause of the defenders of justice, democracy and small nationalities.

Uruguay, with other neutrals, had been a sufferer of Germany's U-boat warfare, and Uruguay's international rights had otherwise been disregarded.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAMS GAINES

New York — "Eating School" — operated by somebody or other.

The sign jumped right out and bit me as I was hurrying along West Seventy-second, 10 minutes late for a luncheon appointment.

Now if only it were a school where one could go to learn the technique of eating spaghetti, for instance, that might make an item. But I had made the same mistake a boorish young fellow made a few days before. His girl was after him about table manners.

The school is one which aims to teach what to eat and what not to eat in order to be healthy and regulate weight.

I peeked in and saw lean and fat and sickly looking individuals at table in the dining hall, which is their class room. But the instructors are not concerned whether the pupils employ the finger or fork method.

The front office attendant laughed.

"Just the other day," she recounted "a husky chap rushed in here all full of eagerness. He blurted:

"Gee, I seen your sign, and I sez to myself, this is the place for me." He had taken his best girl out to dinner the Sunday before, and for the first time was made conscious of the error of eating potatoes off one's knife. He wanted to know the niceties of dining.

Staring Sheep

The attendant said she regretted it a little, having to tell the tough handed young man that this was not a school of etiquette. And he was a disappointed swain when he went out, not knowing and not caring about dietetics.

Many New Yorkers have a funny affliction. They probably never would notice the changes that occur along the paths they tread daily unless some one called their attention to them—such changes as would excite all persons going about their business on Main Street.

Yet, if these ordinarily oblivious New Yorkers see a fellow stop to watch the drawing of a chalk mark upon the sidewalk, they likewise will stand and gaze.

Walking home the other night, I happened to notice the sign of the electric power company over a display window and supposed that there was a convenient branch shop.

A few days later I went

CHINESE FACTIONS BREAK DEADLOCK

Insurgent Leaders Waive Demands to Present United Front in Crisis

Washington—(AP)—The American government has appointed representatives to visit the Sino-Japanese dispute area in Manchuria and report to Washington what the situation is.

Nanking, China—(AP)—High officials asserted here today that the deadlock in the peace negotiations at Canton between the Nanking and the insurgent Canton government had been broken, the insurgent leaders having agreed to waive demands which hitherto had blocked a settlement.

Nanking spokesmen said Wang Ching-wei and Sun Fo, Cantonese leaders, had agreed to come here immediately in "view of the present national crisis," and join in reconstructing the national regime.

Although the details were not definitely stated, it was understood the Cantonese were ready to waive demands for the removal of Chiang Kai-Shek as head of the Nanking government and the elimination of T. V. Soong as its finance minister.

The recent dispute between China and Japan over the latter's occupation of southern Manchuria served to start negotiations for peace between the two Chinese factions on the ground that the country should unify itself against a possible foreign threat.

JAP DESTROYERS TO SAIL
Shanghai—(AP)—The Japanese destroyers Kaki and Hinoki were ordered today to sail from Shanghai tomorrow for Canton and Tientsin, respectively, to protect the Japanese communities there from possible violence at the hands of Chinese.

HOOVER MAPS PROGRAM TO FIGHT SLUMP

Six-point Program of President Given Approval by U. S. Leaders agency similar to the old war finance corporation which operated during the emergency period to encourage domestic industry.

At the door of his study—in the room where Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation—Mr. Hoover quietly received the 32 senators and representatives whom he had summoned. Most of them serve on committees dealing with the questions involved.

About the president were four of his own administrative advisers. They were Secretary Mellon, Undersecretary Mills of the treasury, Governor Meyer of the Federal Reserve board, and Walter Newton, one of his own secretaries.

As the president completed reading deliberately his prepared proposals, debate broke out over the proposed discussion of the moratorium with Premier Laval. It was challenged by Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee, and Representative Garner, the Democratic leader of the house.

When the debate, with bitterness lacking and humor occasionally injecting itself into the serious discussions, ranged to the economic proposals, party lines were dissipated. Democrat challenged Democrat and members of the chief executive's own party and for further details upon the ramifications of the proposals.

Senator Glass of Virginia, a former Democratic secretary of the treasury, recalled that suggestions to expand the base of discountable securities were now under consideration by the senate banking committee.

Support from both parties came to Representative Luce of Massachusetts, in his insistence that the group similar to the war finance corporation be set up only if "necessary."

As the debate spread, President Hoover was joined by Secretary Mellon and his other personal advisers in meeting questions with which they were familiar.

For the private corporation which will raise $500,000,000 to aid banks that have closed their doors, the president said $150,000,000 had been subscribed within the last few days by New York City Clearing House association.

"I have been assured from other large centers," Mr. Hoover said, "as far as I have been able to reach, of their support also. I consider that it is in the national interest, including the interest of all individual bankers and depositors that all the banks of the country should support this movement to their full responsibility. It is a movement of national assurance and of unity of action in an American way to assist business, employment and agriculture."

The chief executive said he had last month requested the governors of the Federal Reserve banks to secure the cooperation of bankers in their territory to make some advance on the security of the assets of closed banks. He sought to have these institutions take over some of these assets in order that the receivers may pay some dividends to their depositors in advance of what would otherwise be the case pending liquidation.

Will Provide Relief
"Such a measure will contribute to free many business activities and to relieve many families from hardship over the forthcoming winter," he said, "and in a measure reverse the process of deflation involved in the tying up of deposits."

Supplementing this appeal made on Sept. 8, Mr. Hoover expects the proposed $500,000,000 agency to soon begin turning these frozen banking assets into cash for trade channels.

Representative Garner explained after the meeting that the setting up of this agency would require no legislation. The Democrats stipulated in agreeing in principle to reorganization of the war finance corporation that the step be taken only in event bankers failed to subscribe fully to the private agency.

Secretary Mellon indicated confidence, however, that the half-billion dollar fund would be raised.

Just as the White House clocks were about to strike the midnight hour, Senator Ewing, a Virginia Democrat, suggested an adjournment of the weary legislators. Some of whom had traveled all day—fired smiling out of the White House to be engulfed by a crowd of newspapermen and photographers.

A number were already en route back home today. It was the second time since congress adjourned that they had been asked by the chief executive for formal support in plans for better conditions. In pledging their support to the moratorium, however, Mr. Hoover communicated by telephone and telegraph, instead of calling them into personal conference.

RACINE POLICE BREAK UP RED DISTURBANCE
Racine—(AP)—A squad of police today broke up a Communist disturbance on the lake front, arresting two men they said were trying to persuade city workers to leave their jobs on a beautification project.

For a few minutes there was a brisk encounter, police clubs and fists swinging. When police gained control, Walter Sorenson, who had been knocked down and Joseph Karey, were taken in custody. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

For several days interference with workers on jobs provided by the city as an unemployment relief measure, has been persistent. Yesterday, men on the job asked for police protection.

Agitators have insisted that the city pay the workers in cash. Their compensation has been credit with which they have been getting food and clothing from the city.

Don't Worry About Child If It Talks

BY ANGELO PATRI
"Something must be the matter with my little daughter. She talks all the time. The minute she is awake she begins and she never stops, not even while she is eating. Isn't there something I can do to stop this? I've tried about everything from spanking to sending her to bed but nothing seems to have any effect."

I don't believe that there is anything the matter with the child. Little children have to learn to talk. They need to practice words and phrases. They need to acquire a vocabulary. The only way they can do these essential things is the way they talk—talking as much and as often as they can.

Little children will pick up a word or a phrase, even a syllable and repeat it endlessly. This is their way of practicing speech. They imitate their speech organs, develop them by use. This is a signal to teach rhymes. The more repetitive they are the better. The House That Jack Built is a very good story for little children to learn. All the Mother Goose rhymes are good.

Let's suppose verses are fine. The more the language tickles their ears the more it will charm them into using their speech powers and increasing their power and control.

At this time language interest is at its height. Never again will it be so easy for the child to learn a word as now. Never again will he find so much joy in putting words together in telling a story. Never again will he love the sound of his voice as he does at four though he become a street orator of the most tireless kind. Take advantage of this period to teach language, native and foreign. It is a mistake to wait to the high-school age to teach foreign languages. Begin when the child is in full pursuit of his speech powers.

The runabout children are those who are acquiring the use of their tongues. They will talk to themselves if they have no one else to talk to so it is best to let them have companions of their own age.

To talk well one must have a good audience and the right audience for a child is within his own group. You cannot isolate a child from his own kind without loss to his growth. Grownup people can never wholly fill the place of a child companion. The intercourse must be close and the span between age and childhood is too wide to be bridged. Children must live with children and learn of children.

They will pick up the wrong expressions now and then. That is to be expected. The grownup people use these expressions and children imitate the speech they hear. That is the way they learn. The wrong word, the cheap expression, will not cling to the child whose people use good language. The home background wins out. Correct the wrong expression by ignoring it, then if it holds on, privately caution. It is unwise to make a scene about wrong expressions as dramatic fix the ideas that produce them.

Once a child has mastered the art of speech he ceases to babble and begins to read. Start him early with the good English of Mother Goose, Stevenson, Maye, Lear, and the Fables. If after that he talks too much change the scene and alter his thought by offering him pleasant occupation.

REJECT BIDS FOR CURB ON KAUKAUNA-ST

Council Decides to Postpone Project Until Next Spring

Menasha—Voting to postpone the project until next spring, the common council Tuesday evening rejected all bids on construction of a curb and gutter on Kaukauna-st from Main to Lush-st. The project, proposed in a petition by the property owners, has been considered by the council for several weeks.

The J. Rasmussen and Sons company of Oshkosh quoted the lowest price of four bids received, 80 cents per lineal foot. The remaining three bids were all filed by Menasha contractors. Joseph Schneider quoted a price of 89 cents per lineal foot and Frank Kassel and Charles Gamsky both quoted 91 cents per lineal foot. The motion to reject all bids and postpone the work until spring was approved by the council by the vote of 10 to 2. It was passed by an unanimous vote.

A resolution striking a clause from the water rate ordinance that provides for an additional charge of $1 to the minimum water rate whenever a flat is rented by the water owner or an meter was passed, subject to the approval of the railroad rate commission.

Athletics Beat Cardinals 3 And 0 To Even World Series

EARNSHAW COPS FOR MACKS WITH 2 HIT EXHIBITION

Pepper Martin Again Takes Leading Role; Gets All Card Blows

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
PHILADELPHIA, (AP)—On the great broad shoulders of "Big Jarge" Earnshaw, one of the greatest pitchers ever to tread a world series mound, rested the hopes and keen desire of an aged gentleman today for his third straight championship of the world.

The old gentleman was Connie Mack, pilot of the world champion Athletics, and as he sat in the tiny tower of his office in Shibe park today, pondering the pitching selection for the fifth game of the world series with the St. Louis Cardinals, there was nothing but joy shining through every wrinkle in his 68 year old face, and Thanksgiving in his heart for the magnificent pitching ability of this 30-year-old product of Swarthmore college.

"Big Jarge" stepping into the bress where the mighty Robert Moses Grove had failed, turned in one of the world series masterpieces of all time yesterday to riddle the National league champions with his fast ball, baffling them with his curves, humiliate them with his control, and saving the Athletics back from the abyss of almost certain defeat to an even footing again with the Cardinals. They have two victories apiece after the first four games of one of the most sensational world series of all times.

Do Or Die For Macks
It was do or die day for the mighty Athletics yesterday, battered and pounded by the surprising Red Birds, strangled for two straight games by the magnificent three-hit left handed pitching of trail Bill Hallahan, the snarling dog-like ventriloquist of the A's life long foe, grizzled Burleigh Grimes, and the lightning Pepper Martin.

It was a day when the Athletics, thirsting for three straight world championships if only to answer the prayer of a grand old man seeking his last baseball record, suddenly found themselves, the first American champions to trail the National league under five years, struggling in the brink of world series catastrophe. They talked the situation over among themselves, they listened to Connie's plea, watched the lanky old fellow with the thin esthetic face of a priest tap Earnshaw on the shoulder and say:

"George, you've got to do it for me, this time."

Then they went out to tackle the Cardinals in the fourth game of the series, the second at Shibe park, and the next to the last effort they could make if the riotous Cardinals, riding the high wave of two of the finest pitching efforts any pair of world series ever put together, kept up the amazing, form overwhelming drive to victory.

Grim And Defiant
They came grimly, defiantly, and the manner in which they ripped into Sylvester Johnson, Big Cardinal hurler who has been doing splendid relief duty through the past two series, was a picture of the Athletics the baseball world has come to recognize as invincible until the Cardinals learned how to take the great Grove apart. Jimmie Fox hit a tremendous home run. Simmons, Dykes, Bishop and Miller all got the range as the A's emerged from their slump.

Leading the comeback surge, magnificent in his power, was Earnshaw, who turned back all but one of the Cardinals, Martin, while the big gunners of Connie's crew, finding the range at last against the pitching of Sergeant Gabby Street's second stringers, battered out a 3 to 2 victory.

Inning after inning, Earnshaw, pitching perhaps the greatest game in world series history, mowed the Cardinals down world wide, hit classic to a string of pitching performances that knows no equal in past series history. In Earnshaw's right arm yesterday was all the guile, all the swiftness, power and control to merit a no-hit classic, the goal that no one has ever attained in this annual struggle of baseball might.

But there was one fly in his ointment, the chunky dogged figure of John "Pepper" Martin, freshman outfielder who is playing this series for the Cardinals, his first in Major league baseball, as no rookie ever has before him. Just as Earnshaw, inspired with a new zeal for victory, love for his aged benefactor, Connie Mack, was pitching the greatest game of his career, so was the gun hawk-faced youngster from the wide open stretches of Oklahoma battling eagerly and fearlessly for his own private fettle.

Wonder At Martin
As the series wears on the wonderment increases steadily at the fanaticism with which this young man, an ordinary hitter during the National league season, assaults the offerings of every Athletics pitcher, even an Earnshaw on the greatest day of his career, as well as giving them all a slight attack of the jitters by his display of speed and daring once he is on the bases.

While the veterans of the Cardinal clouters, the league champion Chick Hafey and his rival, Sunny Jim Bottomley, were vainly poking at Earnshaw's dazzling speed and uncanny curves, lolling them feebly into the air or rolling them vainly through the dirt to the infielders, "Pepper" took his cut freely and wholeheartedly and smacked "Big Jarge" for two hits, the entire Cardinal quota.

He fanned in the second inning and the alien crowd cheered his every movement thought for a while that he had been finally stopped. Instead he wholeheartedly laced a single into left field in the fifth and after getting the entire A's defense on edge, stole second base, his fourth

Earnshaw Wins Place As Greatest "Money" Pitcher

BY ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
PHILADELPHIA, (AP)—George Livingston Earnshaw strode from the box after setting down the Cardinals in order in the first inning of the fourth game as much as to say:

"You birds get a few hits and runs, for a change, and let's go. I feel as though I've got a good game in my system."

The Athletics got the necessary runs and Earnshaw pitched so brilliant a two-hit shutout, baffling all but the ubiquitous "Pepper" Martin, that the old-times, convention last evening, voted the tall right-hander the "greatest money pitcher of all time."

"I know it will sound extravagant to you," remarked Buck Herzog, former infield star of the Giants at a time when Christy Mathewson was at his best. "I am a National leaguer and I want the Cards to win."

I have seen Matty and Bender when they were in their prime, pitching marvelous baseball.

"But I will tell you truthfully I never saw a better pitched ball game than Earnshaw hurled. It could have been no better mechanically, even if he had pitched a no-hit game. This Martin just happens to be hot and to handle. He will hit anything. The two hits he made does not take much from Earnshaw's performance."

Superb Form, Control
"As I watched him, do you know what I kept thinking about. Those machines you see rolling and tossing out cigarettes. I have never seen a pitcher display such superb form and control from the first to the last out. He looks to me as though he could have gone right on pitching the same mechanically perfect all day and the next."

"That," interjected another National league man, "is just what I am afraid of. The Cards have shown they can beat Grove. They have done it twice. As a matter of fact, they have shown they can beat Earnshaw. He has pitched five games against the Cardinals. In the fifth game a year ago he held them to two hits, in seven innings, before giving way to a pinch-hitter and Grove, who received credit for the victory as a result of a homer by Jimmy Fox in the ninth. Earnshaw has blanked the Cardinals in 38 of the 42 innings he has worked against them. He set them down scoreless for 22 innings in a row last year and he has run off 10 scoreless innings this year. In five games he has yielded only four runs in as many scattered innings, and only 21 hits. He has fanned 32 Red Birds."

Marvelous Record
It's a marvelous record, surpassed for a single series only by the superb collection of three shutouts registered by Mathewson in 1905 against the Athletics.

Earnshaw didn't bear down in earnest, however, until suddenly the burden of keeping the A's from being routed was put upon his tall, broad frame. Maybe it was the old college "fight" that revived Earnshaw's effectiveness. He is tanned but looks collegiate, going around without a hat and his hair parted in the middle. Before the series he remarked to his friend and former pitching companion, Stan Baumgartner:

"After what I did last year anything I do in the future will be an anti-climax. I haven't the same enthusiasm and ambition to pitch this year I had last. I can honestly say the additional money, the difference between the winners and losers, share, doesn't arouse my enthusiasm."

"Ambition isn't a matter of dollars and cents. What is there for me to do now—after last year?"

Connie Mack furnished the answer when he said after the third game: "George, it's up to you." The big right-hander has another goal.

BENNY WINS FIRST BOUT WITH KNOCKOUT

New York—(AP)—Benny Leonard has started his comeback campaign with a knockout victory over Pal Silvers of Brooklyn with the jeers of a crowd of 15,000 as the principal accompaniment. Leonard felled Silvers in the second round of their ten round bout in the Queensboro Stadium last night and Silvers stayed down for the full count although most experts at the ringside thought the blows were anything but hard. At the count of ten, Silvers bounced to his feet, apparently unhurt, and ready to continue. Referee Arthur Donovan waved him to his corner and lifted Leonard's hand as the winner.

BELOIT SQUAD BEST IN LAST SIX YEARS

Lawrence's Opponent Saturday Held Ripon to 13 and 6 Score

"The best Beloit college football team since 1925" is the description of the 1931 Gold grid squad, as given by a Beloit paper after last Saturday's game with Ripon college. Ripon won the encounter by a score of 13 and 6.

Saturday afternoon the Gold squad will invade George A. Whitling field for its annual encounter with Lawrence college eleven. The game will mark Coach Percy Clapp's debut in Big Four conference play and needless to say he wants to make the bow with a victory.

Reports on the Beloit-Ripon game last week are that had the Gold gotten a break or two it might have won from the Crimson. A few early season faults are said to have caused the Jaggard aggregation to take the count, faults which easily can be remedied. And that may or may not be bad news for Lawrence.

Ripon used its plunging attack against Beloit in the early part of the game, so the story goes, and made little headway. Late in the encounter the Crimson took to the air and when they came down had the ball game all tucked away.

Beloit's one touchdown was more or less a gift from Ripon. The Crimson drew a 15 yard penalty for holding, then one of 15 yards for tackling a punt receiver after a signal for a fair catch. The ball game was on the 10 yard line and three plunges put the leather across.

Lawrence authorities have announced a new price of 50 cents for a Saturday game and hope for a late turnout. The price is the same as a movie ticket and is expected to be an inducement to local grid fans. Boy scouts will be guests of the college as will the "knot hole" gang.

BADGERS PREPARE FOR ALABAMA TECH BATTLE SATURDAY

Southern Conference Team Has Good Material and Promises to Go Far

MADISON—With the opening games safely past, Wisconsin's football squad began intensive preparation for the battles with Alabama Tech (Auburn) this week and the crucial test against Purdue, Oct. 17. As both of these teams use the Notre Dame style of play, the practice will serve equally well for both games.

During a long Southern conference co-tender, promises to return to the select ranks this year, after several lean seasons. Coached by Chet Wynne, a great Notre Dame fullback, and Roger Killey, an end under Rockne and later a successful coach at Loyola university, Chicago, Auburn last year developed rapidly and is now one of the best eleven in the south, though they lost several games. Their best showing was in holding Georgia Tech to a 12-13 score.

This fall, the Tigers, as they are known in the south, have some splendid material and promise to go far. They are especially strong in the backfield material and showed a stiff line in their opening game, Sept. 26. Hitchcock is the ace of their ball carriers, a 175 pound driving halfback, who punts, passes and receives passes equally well. He plays safety and is a star at bringing back punts. Halfield, his running mate at left half back, is of the same type while Platter and Kimbrell, their underdogs, look good on any field. All the backs throw forward passes so the opposition can never be sure when a dangerous toss is coming. To receive them they have Allright, 6 foot three inch end, who is a wizard as a receiver, and Grant, playing his third year, another great receiver.

The Auburn line did not suit Coach Wynne, from tackle to tackle, in the first game, but it looked good to Guy Sundt, Wisconsin scout, who gave the Tigers the double-O at Birmingham. Auburn had no game last week and with two weeks in which to point for Wisconsin, Wynne and Killey will be able to whip a stiff forward wall into form. McCullum, a big center, towering 6 feet 4 inches in the air, may be shifted to tackle. In that case, Jordan, a veteran, will play center. Chamberless right guard, is another star of the Tiger line.

Nary a club in the K. of C. bowling league won three games Monday night and as a result three teams are tied for the lead. The pikas who had a 6 and 0 edge previous to Monday lost their hold on first place when they dropped two games to the Sturgeon.

Some real pin smashing gave the Trout two wins. Strutz rolled 212 in the first game and 226 in the second. Felt went him one better with a 227 in the second. The third game saw the boys tumble way down, Strutz to 137, Otto 141, Tillman 144 and Felt 147. Brown's 172 was high.

Sharks took two from the Salmon with a 438 series setting the pace. The first game was the only defeat, a 213 by Timmers of the Salmon causing the loss.

The Whales dropped two to the Haddock five by scores of 862 to 803 and 873 to 852. The one victory was 830 to 814. H. Fassbender's 449 was high for the Whales and Van Susteren's 490 for the Haddock.

Perch won two from the Bass in a series to decide which was worst. The Bass reported two 118 scores in the first game and lost, the Perch had a 104 and 75 in the second and lost, while the Bass dropped the third in the face of a 117 and 111.

Trout Lose Two
Steplung rolled 168, 175, 184—527 but the Trout lost two games to the Herring. A 136 to 101 handicap helped turn the trick.

With Roach hitting 205 in the first game, Van Able 199 and Balliet 202, the Trout beat the Halibut 850 to 803, dropped the second

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

Go You Northwestern

HOSE two hit games which are becoming a regularity in the current world series may be the subject of general conversation these days but every so often you run into the question "What about the Northwestern - Notre Dame game at Soldier's Field Saturday?" And personally all we can do is guess and refrain from taking sides.

If this game of football was figured on a pure power basis we'd pick Northwestern for the Wildcats have one of the biggest and most powerful teams we've seen in many a moon, a team that reminds one very much of the Packers, in size and in the easy, slow manner in which it does things. Were the contest to be one of straight plunging we'd bet a pretty penny (that's all we have) on the Cats.

But it happens that Notre Dame is a sweet club when it comes to running the ends, to sliding off tackles with fast, fleet men carrying the ball. And that's where it appears Northwestern's heavy line will be too slow. As poor as Nebraska looked Saturday there was a wee bit of a chap there calling signals who did some mighty neat ball running in the open field; and Notre Dame probably will have several.

Northwestern didn't look so hot on passes either. The defense was lousy and the pass offense anything except smooth. Rentner was the whole show and should the Irish stop him there won't be much trouble—providing some unknown doesn't blossom as an All-American prospect.

So after all, your guess is as good as ours.

Baseball fans who used to see Brewer games a few years ago and marveled at the left handed mascot who worked at first base during batting practice and snared throws from infielders that almost turned him around, will be pleased to hear that chap, Lefty Hust, is playing with the Braves. All Star Barnstormers this fall and turning in a fine article of ball. Lefty used to be a great favorite at Borchert park in the days before Otto Borchert refused to buy him a new uniform and he quit the mascot job.

Harvey Kranhold, Appleton youth attending Wisconsin, still is wondering whether he will or will not be on the university grid team this fall. He passed a physics exam to become eligible and now someone reports his status still is in doubt. If they don't decide pretty soon the season will be over.

The Valley Conference Race
The Valley conference football race Saturday saw Appleton bumped also showed play of some of the Orange linemen lacks the experience that goes with a good, veteran squad.

But the Orange shouldn't feel bad about the defeat for we expect West and Oshkosh both will lose at least one game this season. We pick West to bow to East in their annual game and we hope the Orange is far enough along by Oct. 31 to humble Oshkosh.

Right now, however, the Orange is booked with Fond du Lac Saturday and the Cardinals will be anything except a set up. They lost to East last weekend but they'll make it tough if the Orange doesn't shoot the works when they clash at Fondy.

"Pepper" Martin
Big "Jarge" Earnshaw and Burleigh Grimes may be the subject of conversation as far as pitching feats in the series are concerned but John "Pepper" Martin is the big show otherwise.

Martin's 27 years old, in the major for the first time, and in his first series. He is mighty fast as his base running and fly chasing feats show, is blessed with a great arm and is built like a truck. Before he joined the Cards he spent his time digging telephone post holes and playing a little semi-pro baseball.

Reports are that since he made the acquaintance of Mr. Mickey Cochrane, Mack catcher, Mickey has taken out insurance on everything except his tonsils for fear Mr. Martin will extend his base stealing efforts to Mr. Cochrane's personal belongings.

Army and Navy officials, who asked for the benefit performance by the Salvation Army, agreed to it yesterday. The Salvation Army sponsored last year's contest in New York which netted $400,000 for the unemployed and a 5 to 0 victory for Army.

That was the first meeting of the two institutions on the gridiron since they severed relations four years ago after differences over eligibility requirements. These difficulties will again be left unsettled as they march on the field in December.

Officials of the Navy are understood to favor Franklin Field, Philadelphia. The Navy's last game is to be there Dec. 5 against the University of Pennsylvania.

The size of the Polo Grounds in New York, however, was considered a formidable factor. Rooters for Chicago and Soldiers' Field, had the support of Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations.

From the hills of the Hudson there was word West Point looked upon Dec. 13 as the only available date, since the Army has another game Nov. 28. No intimation came from there, however, of where the soldiers want to fight.

ARMY AND NAVY TO PLAY FOR CHARITY

Salvation Army Sponsoring Contest Between Service Schools

Washington—(AP)—The echo of clinking dollars for the unemployed stirred by the charging football teams of Annapolis and West Point again will be heard this year.

The two service teams have agreed to meet, probably Dec. 12, with all receipts going to alleviate distress of the jobless. Either New York, Philadelphia or Chicago will get the game, with the Gotham Polo Grounds holding the most votes now.

RED WINGS NEED ONE GAME TO COP SERIES

Rochester, N. Y.—(AP)—A single victory stood between the Rochester Red Wings and their second successive "little world series" championship today.

The international league champions, led by Billy Southworth, gained a commanding lead of four games to one by turning back St. Paul, yesterday, 4 to 3. St. Paul won the American league title-holders, faced with the almost impossible task of winning all four remaining games. Another victory for Rochester automatically will end the series.

The Red Wings were outlived 12 to 8 in the fifth game but bunched these blows with nine walks by three St. Paul hurlers for a sixth winning margin. The run that decided the game came in the seventh inning when Jack Bentley, former big leaguer, singled after Pepper and Puccinelli had walked.

WHITE SOX DEFEAT CUBS 7-2 AND COP CHICAGO CITY TITLE

Noisy Six Run Rally in Fourth Inning Gives Bushmen the Edge

CHICAGO—(AP)—Donie Bush and his luckless White Sox, who were kicked around unmercifully by the American league Clubs last season, had their big day at last today.

They were Chicago city champions for the first time in five years, their pockets were lined with the big end of the players' purse, and they had a big cheering Cub following by wishing they played in the National league instead of the American. Bush had something more to be happy about as it was generally believed he might after all be rehired as manager of the team for 1932.

A noisy six run rally in the fourth inning, backed by Al Thomas' fourth hit pitching, gave the White Sox a 7 to 2 victory in the seventh and final game of the long series at Wrigley field yesterday. The third place holders in the 1931 National league race didn't have a chance after that and the White Sox fans cheered so much that they almost lost their voices.

Throughout the seven games, the cellar occupants of the American league played by far the best baseball. They scored 36 runs to 17 by the Cubs and their pitcher, Cubs and their pitchers turned in several beautiful hurling performances. While the Cubs won their three games by the margin of one run, the White Sox captured their victories by margins of 9 to 0, 4 to 3, 13 to 6, and 7 to 2. Manager Bush usually only four pitchers—Faber, Thomas, Lyons and Frasier—while the Cubs employed 11.

Before the series opened, it was the general opinion in Chicago baseball circles that Bush was definitely through as manager of the team. But his direction in the city series was so capable that he was regarded as certain to manage the team in 1932. His two-year contract, which expired at the end of yesterday's game.

The official, total attendance for the series was 137,451 with receipts at $152,124.50. The players' share was $37,108.10, clubs' share $92,197.70, and the commissioner's share $13,877.30.

BADGER FROTH TOSS PASSES AT VARSITY

Eligibility of Harvey Kranhold Will Be Settled Sometime Today

Madison—(AP)—The freshmen throw passes all over the lot yesterday as part of the Badger varsity's practice in pass defense in preparation for Alabama Tech here Saturday.

In the North Dakota state game last week the Badgers displayed a weakness against passes particularly those going 20 yards or 25 yards and so yesterday Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite drilled on the pass defense.

"Buckets" Goldberg and Russ Rehbolz played halfbacks and John Schneller was in at fullback. Except for the going through the drill with the freshmen and working a new play along with several attempts at passes, the Badgers were only given a light drill.

The eligibility of Harvey Kranhold, Appleton guard, is expected to be announced today. Because there was some question of his eligibility he was kept out of the first two games last weekend.

Scrimmage against freshmen wearing Auburn colors and uniforms is on today's program at Camp Randall.

SYNOPSIS: Sam Sherrill dreads confessing to Peak Abbott whom she promised to marry to help her family's poverty, that she has been in love with Freddy Manson—even though she now loves him. Sam is worried, believing that Fourth Aldersea, her stepfather, has caused the disappearance of Martha, his son Nelson's wife.

Chapter 30
Postponed Confession
"YES, I want to tell you about having luncheon with Freddy Munson today — about that and some other things," Sam said.

"I see." Peak did not seem particularly interested. There was a tired, almost indifferent note in his voice. "Was the luncheon so very important?"

"Yes," said Sara quietly. "It was important. So are the other things that I want to say. You must let me say them, Peak."

"I don't know what's the matter with you," he said without glancing in her direction, "but I seem to be terribly tired all at once."

"I wonder if you'd mind doing something for me."
"Of course not,"
He hesitated. "I wonder if you'd mind not talking about Freddy Munson?"
"But, Peak?" Sam gasped in consternation. "I've been waiting all afternoon just for that. It's impor-

He was just about to struggle from behind the steering wheel when Sam's voice spoke to him from the darkness on the other side of the door.
"Don't get out," she said, opening the door and slipping to the cent beside him. "Let's talk out here for a while. It's a nice night."

"Hello, Sam." He took off his hat and tossed it over his shoulder into the tonneau. "Yes, I suppose it's a nice night. I hadn't really thought about it."

"I don't know," he shrugged. "Maybe I'm a good guesser. At any rate, I agree with you that what you have to say is probably very important. That's why I'm asking you not to say it now. I'd rather like to finish this business of Martha and me."

"But, Peak" I thought that business was all settled. I thought that all you had to do was to tell Nelson where to find Martha and then let him go on there and bring her home."

"Yes. Martha was pretty well fed up with her rural retreat. She

"I suppose you're right," Sam promised her that she'd never give up. "And I suppose what I want Nelson a hint as to the reason she went away."

"I'm sorry, Sam," Peak shrugged. "You probably think I'm unreasonable. I promise you I won't keep you waiting long. If you want to talk to her, I'll be glad to put her in touch with you."

Sam put her head back against the leather cushions. "And now," she commanded, "you can tell me everything about your talk with her."

"Yes" Sam seized gratefully at the straw "I wouldn't be able to sleep, anyhow, until I'd talked to

He merely nodded, and the rest of the trip was made in silence. When they reached Peak's house Sam refused his invitation to come in. "If I go in, I'll be straight out," he said. "I'll probably tell you tomorrow or the next day at the latest. But just happens that I don't feel like talking at the moment. I've had rather a day, you know."

"Of course," said Peak. "I'll be able to handle things, I'm sure."

"Yes," Sam seemed to pull away from him. She sank deeper into her corner of the seat. "You're

APPLETON GIRLS APPEAR AT FOX IN STYLE REVUE

Two Performances to Be Offered Daily Thursday and Friday

A style revue, with Appleton girls acting as models, will be held at the Fox theatre Thursday and Friday. There will be both matinee and evening performances.

Local merchants will provide the clothes to be worn by the models, and Mickey and his comedians will provide the music. A $3,500 stage setting has been imported from the Milwaukee theatre for the occasion.

The revue will be staged by Kiva Hoffman, formerly of Max Factor, Metro Goldwyn Mayer and other Hollywood studios. He will apply the make-up on the models, and during each performance will make-up a model on the stage, and will completely dress a living model from the almost disassembled stage to where she will be able to take a brisk walk to town.

BLACK, WHITE HAT POPULAR IN PARIS

It's Often of Velours, Entirely Brimless, Surmounted by Bow

BY ALLEEN LAMONT
Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press
New York.—And then again Paris goes in for the black and white hat with the black and white bow perched over the right eye. It is often a hat of velours, entirely brimless; just a sort of gob cap slanted sideways on the head and surmounted by one bow of white velvet which in turn is surmounted by a bow of black.

Chubby Ringlets
Even though London likes her hair to be short, still it isn't so short as it used to be and it certainly is long enough for the chubby ringlet. London wears this type of fat, horizontal curl on the side of the head left practically bare by the season's hat. Some times the whole side of the head is thus curled, but often there are two or three fat curls at the base of an ordinary wave.

Frosty Glints
Diamond jewelry—that is, the French imitation jewelry now so fashionable with the velvet evening gown—does not sparkle quite so blindingly as of yore. It has more of a frosty glint, very intriguing, caused by smaller stones and by a great deal of marcasite in the settings. Just the same, its visibility is beautifully high.

Who's News Today

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press
New York.—Significantly, Bernard Baruch, business dictator and civilian adviser to President Wilson during the world war, took a weighty part in Sunday night's presidential conference, the momentous issue of which was announced for Tuesday.

Word in Wall Street is that this staunch state's rights Democrat, foe of paternalism in business, backer of Al Smith in the 1928 campaign, prophet of doom for the Dawes plan, and heavy contributor to Democratic party funds, is playing a leading role in what may be the critical and climatic moment for Mr. Hoover's administration.

"I am a speculator," says Mr. Baruch, "and make no apologies for it. The word comes from the Latin word 'speculari,' to observe. I observe." The remark is noted as a revealing utterance. Mr. Baruch's attitude is unfailingly that of amused detachment. He never pounds his desk, but, instead, smokes Egyptian cigarettes and blows smoke rings. They induce meditation. Plans and strategies emerge.

Ever since the war, when he was chairman of the war industries board, he has been advocating a governmental "price-freezing" plan, to end war by making it unprofitable. He proposes an international "supreme court of business." He has always been dubious about the German reparations. "A demand might be morally reasonable that would be unreasonable as a business proposition," he said. In 1927, he predicted that the Dawes plan would be revised or scrapped in two years. He is 6 feet, 3½ inches tall, with no redundancy, and keeps fit by his system of boules calisthenics, experimentally arrived at. The usual loose, outside guesses, probably inaccurate, place his fortune at $30,000,000. It was made in Wall Street.

Morgan F. Larson, run-of-the-mill, hard-working New Jersey governor, is suddenly burdened with an important national concern in appointing a successor to Senator Dwight W. Morrow. Governor Larson is the first republican governor of New Jersey since 1919. When Mr. Morrow made his famous prohibition speech, Governor Larson endorsed it as "straightforward, courageous and definite." He has never taken a stand as an aggressive wet, and there is little basis for conjecture as to his selection in this regard.

In the broader outlines of his policies, such as reform and economy in state government, lower taxes and scientific prison administration, he was in accord with Mr. Morrow and might be expected to appoint a successor with a generally similar attitude. His prevailing views are conservative. He supported Mr. Morrow's candidacy.

Mr. Larson, son of a Perth Amboy blacksmith, self educated, was a surveyor and is now a member of the Larson & Fox engineering firm of Perth Amboy. He emphasizes simplicity and economy in his administration, and, like Colonel Lindbergh, dislikes publicity and gives no interviews. His views on national and international issues, which might govern his choice for the senate at the moment of a delicate equilibrium in congress, are not clearly disclosed.

A tall, stately Parsee woman, Mrs. Cornelia Sorabji, comes to America to lecture, not against Gandhi, but the views and methods which the Mahatma represents. Mme. Sorabji employs ten yards of flowered crepe de chine—news for the textile magazines—in making her suit, and is an eloquent opponent not only of Gandhi's non-cooperation, but of his plans for the drastic severance of India from the empire.

Daughter of a rich, distinguished and intellectual Parsee family, she is the leading feminist of India. In 1892 she matriculated in law at Oxford, won honors and distinctions in her work, was admitted to the bar, like Gandhi, and spent the next 20 years in India as adviser to the court of wards of four British provinces. She is in sharp disagreement with Gandhi in regard to the oppression of Indian prisoners.

"They give the prisoners nice little cottages, with flower gardens," she says. "It is not unusual for the higher prisoners, like the Nehru, to send out the keeper to procure a fourth at bridge."

Williamstown, Mass.—President Harry A. Garfield of Williams college, has suggested a reduction in the cost of education. He has asked the fraternities to forego their annual fall house parties to save about $12,000 for hard-pressed fathers. Final decision rests with the society.

SHOREWOOD FINDS FARM LANDS ARE VALUABLE

Milwaukee.—(P)—Trustees of the village of Shorewood, gold coast suburb, have heard that there is a depression in the value of farm lands "but where is it?" the trustees are asking. Shorewood wants to rent some likely piece of land convenient to the village. Nor does it have to be a choice piece of real estate. View, fertility or general desirability does not matter, for Shorewood is looking for a rubbish dump.

The owner of one piece of land offered to lease a few acres for $400 a year. Another land owner asked a little less, and was not anxious to make the deal.

"Such a rate for dumping is outrageous," said Harry Schmidt, village manager. While a trustee observed, "For that price, I'll let the village use my back yard."

STOCK PRICES
DROOP UNDER PROFIT-TAKING

Financial Quarters, However, Hold Note of New Confidence

By Claude A. Jagger

New York.—(P)—Fervent buying in the stock market subsided today, and prices sagged under profit taking sales, but a new note of confidence remained in financial quarters.

President Hoover's plan of restoring economic stability was widely praised in Wall Street, and bankers felt it had checked unreasoning hysteria, leaving the way clear for a sane approach to the problems of depression. The foreign markets, as well as New York, responded to the plan with advancing prices. Stocks in the local market fell back after an early upturn, however, although the bond market maintained a firm position.

There were numerous advances of 1 to 7 points in the early trading, but most of the advance was lost by early afternoon. Steel failed to follow the early upturn, and U. S. Steel and Bethlehem finally sold down about 2 points from yesterday's closing levels. Similar losses appeared in American Telephone, Westinghouse Electric, Dupont, and Allied Chemical. The Liggett and Myers and American Tobacco shares sold up 3 to 5 points, and retained about half their gains. In the rails, early gains of 2 to 3 points in Santa Fe and New York Central were replaced by small losses. General Electric rose, then lost part of its gain.

The midweek business statistics again testified the low state of trade, and turned attention to the magnitude of the task of restoring corporate earning power. The "Iron Age" weekly review of the steel trade said ingot production had slipped back from 31 to 29 per cent of capacity, but it expected that the belated start of new model making by the automobile companies would provide considerable new business within a few weeks. The freight car loadings report for the week ended Sept. 26 showed a decline of about 4,000 cars from the previous week. A small gain is normal for the period.

Nevertheless, bankers pointed out that aggressive and practical measures to relieve points of stress in the economic structure should go far toward facilitating recovery, and that they gave every indication of being the beginning of the seemingly endless liquidation.

Brokers said the quieting down of the stock market was distinctly encouraging, for any excessive demonstration of bullishness at this time would be likely to place the market in such a weak technical position that it would necessarily have a sharp reaction, which would be likely to impair the improved sentiment resulting from the Hoover plan. The moderate reaction was to have been expected, it was explained, after such a rise as yesterday's in which the presentage gain exceeded anything in recent market history.

GAINS EXTENDED
BY CURB MARKET

Trading Turns Quiet After Early Profit-taking Appearances

New York.—(P)—The curb market extended its gains today and although profit-taking appeared after the early morning trading turned quiet on the reaction.

Maintenance of the advance at the opening reflected a substantial accumulation of overnight buying orders and some of the initial gains were sharp as numerous large blocks changed hands. The realizing sales tended to push the list back to the previous close, but the market showed a firm tone.

Electric Bond and Share was up about a point on the first transaction and sharper advances were shown by a number of other favorites, including Gulf Oil, Aluminum of America and American Gas. Specialties ran up rapidly during the buying movement. Mead Johnson, Great Atlantic and Pacific, and General Motors advanced moderately well, aided by a drop of 45,000 barrels in crude oil during the past week. Standard of Indiana and Ohio moved higher with Gulf, although Humble eased moderately. Cities Service was about steady.

Trading in the investment trust division was quiet.

MOST STOCKS NOW IN LOWER PRICE RANGE

Shares Have Shrunk Far in Excess of Reduction in Earnings

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1931, By Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York (CPA)—
In the belief that many common stocks, by reason of the condition of world finances and politics, have declined to abnormal market levels, some of them being lower than ever before and others at figures that have not been reached in over 30 years, the effort is made in this article today to list in several price groups shares of companies of strong management, large resources of cash and liquid investments and an ability to show a rapid recovery in earnings with a return to conditions equalling those of the years 1926-27. It has previously been pointed out that a high proportion of all of the stocks listed on the New York exchange are now quoted in the lower price brackets. The day when people bought stocks in quantity above $100 a share is over. There were only three stocks remaining in the so-called "century" class at the opening Tuesday morning. The great bulk of all of the issues are in the price classifications between $10 and $30 a share.

$10-$15 Per Share
Taking first the group between $10 and $15 a share dealt in on the New York stock exchange list, it is found to include American and Foreign Power, American Power and Light, Anaconda Copper, Atlantic Refining, Burroughs Adding Machine, California Packing, Canada Dry, Canadian Pacific, Cerro de Pasco, Chrysler, Diamond Match, Erie, Freeport Texas, General Baking, International Telephone and Telegraph, Kennecott Copper, National Power and Light, Radio Corporation, St. Joseph Lead, Shattuck Co., Socony Vacuum, Southern Railway, Standard Brands, Union Oil of California and United Corporation. Not a few of these stocks are paying dividends and are earning, even in these times, a high proportion of the amount being disbursed.

There are a considerable number of stocks on the $15 a share border-line. With these and others quoted up to $20 a share, there may be included the following: American Banknote, Columbia Gas and Electric, Electric Power and Light, Gold Dust, Great Northern, Houston Oil, Kroger Grocery, Lehigh Valley, Mack Trucks, Nash Motors, National Cash Register, Northern Pacific, Royal Dutch, Timken Roller Bearing, Warner Brothers Pictures, Westinghouse Air Brake, Worthington Pump and Youngstown Sheet and Tube. This group also includes a fair proportion on a dividend basis able to pay dividends for some time to come.

$20-$25 Group
In the group between $20 a share and $25 a share are Abraham and Straus, American Brake Shoe, American Smelting and Refining, American Water Works, Best and Co., Bethlehem Steel, Chesapeake and Ohio, Electric Auto Light, Fidelity Phoenix Fire Insurance, General Electric, General Motors, Illinois Central, International Harvester, Louisville Gas and Electric, National Dairy Products, Otis Elevator, Pullman, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Underwood Elliot Fisher, United Gas and Improvement and United States Industrial Alcohol. This list has in it some of the most outstanding of industrial and public utility stocks with strong sponsorship.

Don't Permit Student With Ailment To Enter Sports

Madison — Sports are good for high school students but no pupils suffering from any ailments should be permitted to enter. The Educational Committee of the State Medical Society of Wisconsin today branded as "simply bunk" statements that athletic sports are too strenuous for high school boys.

"It is not the sport that is injurious for high school boys but whether a particular student is fitted for the specific sport," declares the second athletic health bulletin to be issued by the Medical Society. "The elimination of the physically unfit from certain sports is of the utmost importance, not only because of the harmful effect upon the individual but also because of the prejudices which might arise against certain sports should participants, not physically fit, be permanently invalidated or worse. It is nations must not be cursory and incomplete. When such is the case, matters are usually worse than when no examinations are made, as students and parents are given an unwarranted feeling of security."

"If among students of college age, as is certainly true, many defects and conditions are found which bar these individuals from some specific or all work in athletics, why will not the same proportionate number of grade and high school pupils be similarly affected? It is obvious that the conditions which render it unsafe for these students to engage in physical work are usually chronic and have not been acquired in the short vacation period between high school and college. Most 'prep' schools have recognized the necessity of thorough physical examinations for their students, and many of them are doing enviable work along these lines. It is to be regretted that the public schools have not kept pace with this modern idea of the proper physical examinations of pupils. Usually, financial inability to engage competent physicians to do the work is the cause of this glaring omission in our grades and in high schools."

"It is well known that numerous children and young adults suffer from chronic heart disease; certainly the majority of these should not engage in strenuous sport. Many of these individuals, and even their parents, do not suspect these cardiac conditions and often suffer irreparable injury if allowed to participate in athletics, at least without proper medical supervision. The great so-called rheumatic syndrome is the common cause of these chronic heart conditions. Four related diseases—acute articular or inflammatory rheumatism, scarlet fever, tonsillitis, and chorea or St. Vitus's Dance—make up this syndrome, and children who have had any one of these infectious diseases should be carefully observed for heart conditions."

"If grade and high school students are physically fit they should ordinarily be permitted to engage in such activities as attract them. Obviously football in high school is not for the extremely tall, very thin boy, particularly if his height has been acquired in a year or so. Basketball, one of the most strenuous sports, is as safe for high school as for college students, provided the participants are chosen with a view to their age, weight, and general fitness. The same rule should hold for all activities. It is usually not the sport that is too strenuous for high school students, but that a particular student is not fitted for the specific sport."

Shrinkage Enormous
The percentage of shrinkage in market values between October, 1923 and October, 1931, has been in excess of the average reduction in earnings per share and in dividends paid per share. What has happened to them might be outlined in other groups at prices ranging from $20 a share to $50 a share. One can go even below the $10 a share level and find in it numerous examples of stocks that were well above $100 a share two years ago without a corresponding change in their asset values, such as Montgomery-Ward and Simmons.

The experience which investors and speculators had with stocks quoted in the upper price brackets from 1929 and subsequently, has definitely changed the current of demand to shares of low or moderate price. It is confidently believed that the price picture presented through the individual stocks listed above will be quite a different one a year or two hence and wholly satisfactory to those who today are not being swept off their feet by the prevailing hysteria and are able to gather together resources and put them to profitable use in the common stock market.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU "LIBRA"

If October 8th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a. m. to 1:10 p. m., and from 5:15 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. The danger hours are from 2:20 p. m. to 4:05 p. m. and from 9:50 p. m. to 11 p. m.

The planetary aspects of October 8th favor business, but are inimical to social interests. Many opportunities for development and advancement, along commercial lines, will present themselves, and, if seized, will lead to ultimate success. Minor worries in domestic circles will breed individual pessimism, and create a frame of mind opposed to geniality or romance.

Children born on this October 8th will have retentive memories and good minds for details. Even in their very early years, they will show unmistakable evidences of neatness and tidiness. They will be amiable, magnetic and intuitive and have hosts of friends, and be happy themselves, as well as promote harmony all around them.

Born on October 8th, you are far-seeing and practical. The Signs indicate that a business career is the one in which you will shine and succeed. This applied equally to men and women. The latter will show little desire for domestic cares, and, whilst fond of the comforts of a good home, they are not equipped either to plan or run it. In order to bring out the best that lies in October 8th subjects, they must be in continual touch with the whirl of affairs, and will show great aptitude in out-thinking others. Druggery and routine—with all its attendant monotony—will only provoke stagnation.

You are independent and original. You chafe under guidance and resent interference. You, of course are not infallible. You have made, and will continue to make, "misses." The bull's eyes, however, outnumber them, and these have all been made when you have been free to choose your own rifle. You are destined to travel a great deal during your lifetime.

You are attracted by, and attractive to, the opposite sex, as there is a magnetism about you which invites confidence, esteem and admiration. You should not marry until your position is assured, as you could not tolerate the atmosphere generally engendered by any degree of privation.

WITH OLD GOLDS

Charming women are first won by OLD GOLDS' appealing taste. But their enthusiasm doubles when they find that OLD GOLDS do not taint the breath or mar the whiteness of pearly teeth.

That's because OLD GOLD is a pure tobacco cigarette. Made from the finest nature-flavored tobaccos. So good, it needs no added flavoring.

It's "foreign flavoring", not good tobacco, that leaves unwanted after-maths. Play safe. Smoke pure-tobacco OLD GOLDS. They leave nothing behind but pleasant recollections.
